REPORT ON THE APPROPRIATION TO WOMAN'S COLLEGE. In brief, the recommendation of the Budget Commission to the General Assembly during the first week the Assembly met in January, was in the end voted by the 1947 Legislature. Although not every item requested was granted, nevertheless the Woman's College is pleased with the generosity of the 1947 Legislature, and is convinced that the future of this college is now definitely assured. To the members of the Special Alumnae Legislative Committee, to the County Alumnae Legislative Chairmen, to any and all alumnae everywhere, who spoke the word for their College, in and out of season — our gratitude. The appropriation is as follows:

| 8. Survey, relocation and extension of utilities, walks, and drives..... | 150,000 |
| TOTAL..... | $3,177,600 |

Alumnae who may wish to compare the amount appropriated with the amount requested, and to read again the items which were requested but not considered by the Legislature, are referred to the February number of the ALUMNAE NEWS.

Commencement dates this year are Friday evening, May 30 — senior ball;

Saturday, May 31 — art exhibit, annual meeting of the Alumnae Association, Class Day, and the guest performance by Play-Likers; Sunday, June 1 — baccalaureate sermon, informal gathering on the lawn of the chancellor's home, concert; Monday, June 2 — graduating exercises, with Governor Cherry, President Graham, Chancellor Jackson, and a representative of the Senior Class as speaker. As usual, alumnae will be joyfully welcomed. Rooms may be secured in dormitories without charge by making your request through the alumnae office. Because of the continued crowded conditions in the dining halls, and the shortage of help, no formal luncheons or dinners will be served this year. But even with such things absent, there will be interest and entertainment enough to give returning alumnae a really happy time. So come!

The fourth Arts Forum was held on March 20-22, bringing to this campus several hundred students and members of the faculty from many colleges in the southeast. As usual the departments and divisions of Art, English, Dramatics, Dance, and Music united to provide here an event which in four years has become national in scope and attendance. Its effect upon the creative impulses of a growing section and a great nation are sure to be large. This year the visiting celebrities in the fields represented were Ernst Bacon, composer, director of the School of Music, Syracuse University; Valerie Bettis, dancer, choreographer, and teacher; Thomas Munro, critic, philosopher, teacher of art, chairman of the division of art, Western Reserve University; Robert Penn Warren, poet, novelist, critic, professor of English, University of Minnesota; author of All the King's Men.

A new degree will be offered next year for majors in the Art Department — B.F.A., bachelor of fine arts. Already some eight or nine students will qualify for this new degree.

An event of outstanding significance will be the national convention of the "Lilacs"—Flower arrangement used in the entrance hall of Alumnae House.

Athletic Federation of College Women, which is scheduled to meet on this campus April 18, 19, 20. This is the first convention to be held since the war — the last met at Wellesley College. Again students and members of the faculty from colleges and universities throughout the nation will be guests of Woman's College.

The Department of Classical Civilization at Woman's College

By Dr. Charlton C. Jernigan
Head of the Department

When Dr. McIver was preaching the doctrine of woman's education in the South, he expressed the ideal of the southern college-bred woman in terms of cultural as well as practical education. Accordingly, the study of Latin and the classical cultures was given a prominent place in the early curriculum of this College. And to speak of Latin in the early years at this College is to speak of Miss Viola Boddie.

Miss Boddie was the first and for many years the very dynamic teacher in the Department of Latin. In those early years the majority of the students spent much time in the study of the Latin language, and it was Miss Boddie who became for many of them the very prototype of the college professor behind whose scholarly facade the inquiring student might occasionally, if she were lucky, catch glimpses of the warm personality that gave vitality to her teaching. To talk with any of those earlier students of Latin, you conceive the idea that there was a beautiful woman who in no sense looked the part of the stern disciplinarian, the purveyor of ancient truths, the classroom martinet, or the social and moral arbiter of the lives of her students. And yet she was all of these and more. It is perhaps the greatest tribute to her genius that under her tutelage the study of Latin became a vehicle for the study of life and manners. In a world that was beginning to make a fetish of the "short-cut" method of achievement, Miss Boddie insisted on thorough preparation and clear thinking. If she could flay a careless worker, she could compliment the careful. The student soon found that the only way to win her applause was to do an honest and intelligent job. It was in this way that the moral discipline of the Classics was made a glowing and vital thing to the young people.

In 1935 the Department of Latin was renamed the Department of Classical Civilization. A full major course of study in ancient Greek was now introduced into the college curriculum along with Latin. All of the great classical authors are now open to qualified students. It is not unusual in any given year to observe classes in various phases of our cultural backgrounds, from Homer to late Church Latin.

In point of numbers the department has grown from thirty-three students in 1935 to an approximate average of one hundred and fifty or one hundred and seventy-five. During the present term, for example, some eighty-five freshmen will study mythology, and forty-five upperclassmen are enrolled in a course in Greek Literature. Furthermore, a full series of courses in both Latin and Greek are well attended. The beginning Greek course—"Baby Greek" here at Woman's College—has one of the largest enrollments in the nation. Latin classes and advanced Greek also flourish. Miss Myrtle Soles, a fine young teacher—a Woman's College graduate of the Class of 1945, has been added to the Classics staff. All majors in the department have done well. Miss Marilyn Barkeley, a 1941 graduate, distinguished herself and her College when she won the outstanding graduate scholarship offered in the English Department of the University of Pennsylvania. This brilliant student was granted the Frances E. Bennett Scholarship in that university by virtue of her record in Greek and Latin here at Woman's College.

One of the most constructive things achieved in the Department of Classical Civilization was the organization of the Classical Club. Membership in this club is restricted to students who have made a grade of B or better in either Latin or Greek or both. The fifty members represent many of the most intelligent students in college. An outstanding group of twenty-five freshmen and sophomores was initiated recently. The monthly programs are in the hands of the students. Scholarly papers are read and criticized at the monthly meetings, and all this work is entirely voluntary. This year the members of the club put on a drive to collect money for the purchase of books for Pierce College, an American College for women in Athens, Greece. The sum of $155 was collected.

One of the most significant additions to the scholarship of the campus is the recent acquisition of the library of Professor Charles W. Peppler, the retired head of the Department of Greek, Duke University. This distinguished teacher's library represents one of the most valuable collections of books on classical scholarship to be found in the southern region. With its purchase of these books—more than two hundred items—the Woman's College Library is equal in certain fields of Greek scholarship to many of the better graduate libraries. Many of the items are extremely valuable, and a few almost priceless. To name a few of the choicest, there are: Schmidt-Stachlin, Geschichte der griechischen Literatur. The third volume of this monumental work was sent through Siberia to Dr. Peppler just after Hitler had closed the doors of Germany. It is unlikely that more than a very few copies survived the biblio-holocaust. Engelmann-Preuss, Bibliotheca Scriptorum Classicorum and Klusmann's Bibliotheca Scriptorum et Graecorum et Latinorum are merely two examples of many great books for scholarly reference. Most of the greatest editions of the chief writers, from Homer to Theocritus, are represented, and of particular note is a very remarkable collection of indexes to the major authors in the Greek field.

It is the intention of the Department of Classical Civilization to interpret for today's students some of the glories of man's past. In a day when Latin is no longer for many the language of learning and the limpid Greek speaks to but few, it is a privilege to teach it to those who would try it. Homer's thunderous hexameters can still be heard; Virgil's stateliness can be appreciated; Sappho and Catullus still give pleasure to the initiated. The New Testament in Greek unfolds new truths to those trained in the Greek language. All this is done at Woman's College. And for those who approach the springs of western culture through the medium of translations, it is still possible to wrestle in the pages of Aeschylus with some of the mightiest religious problems that man yet faces; to see through Sophocles' eyes man in his noblest moments; and with Euripides to gaze critically upon outworn tradition and to behold the new dawn of universal brotherhood. Horace can be heard still singing, though in an alien tongue, and the power of law and discipline can be observed in the tread, now muted, of the Roman legion. The questing students at Woman's College still stand on the streets of Athens and learn from Socrates to think on truth—still can learn something from those who saw life clearly and saw it whole.

(Ed. Note. In 1935, upon the retirement of Miss Boddie, Dr. Jernigan was brought from Duke University to be head of the Department of Latin, renamed with his coming the Department of Classical Civilization. Since he has been with us, Dr. Jernigan has not only made a place for himself on the college campus, but has entered heartily into the life of the city, as speaker on various club programs, as teacher of a Bible Class at the First Presbyterian Church, and in other capacities. He is married, and has two young sons.)

Will You Help Write the History of the Cornelian Society?

Mr. Adams, our college librarian, says that a student came to the library recently trying to locate material on the history of the Cornelian Society. "Our files produced only one picture, that of the society in 1912. But—right there on the front row sat this girl's mother! We wish we could have given her more help than this, however; and if you will send us such things as programs, more pictures, perhaps a talk you made before the society when you were a student, or a story of some particularly outstanding meeting of the society that you remember—really any and everything, we shall be better able to meet this call when it comes again." Do not throw out anything—when you get into your next fatal housecleaning—which relates to the College; send it to the College Library.

THE FAMILY TREE

Once again THE ALUMNAE NEWS presents "The Family Tree," made up this year of 170 branches—students whose mothers were themselves students at Woman's College.

A LOOK at LOVELY HAWAII

CHARLESANNA FOX '30

*District Librarian, Fourteenth
 Naval District, Honolulu, Hawaii*

Perhaps other people remember more from geography lessons about Hawaii than I did but the thimbleful of information about these islands I brought with me has been greatly expanded by what I have seen and by what kamaiianas (oldtimers) have told me. The few words I knew: Hawaii, Mauna Loa, Oahu,—have been added to until I fancy myself a kamaiiana, though I cannot boast of having been here the twenty years required!

The climate, the volcanic nature of the islands, the beautiful tropical flora, the balmy nights, the clouds, the ocean of a thousand blues and greens have for years past been described in many ways in poetry and prose. One's first impression is surprise and elation at the lovely sights. Views such as that at the Nuuanu Pali are breathtaking — within a short distance from a glance at the ocean on the Honolulu side of Oahu there is at the Pali a panorama of the windward side. On Oahu it is impossible to be more than ten miles from the sea! Each island has its outstanding features, just as the states on the mainland, and each should be visited if possible.

The greatest factor in living here for some months is the general awareness of the whole Pacific area which comes to us malihinis (newcomers), Association with the University of Hawaii, the exquisite Academy of Arts, the Bishop Museum (covering all Polynesia, Melanesia and Micronesia), the Library of Hawaii, and evening classes at the Y.W.C.A. and city high schools eventually makes us conscious of the Pacific as a unit of culture. The last war brought the geography of the Pacific closer to our knowledge, but much is yet to be learned about the peoples, their migrations, languages, customs, legends, and economy.

One evening will stand out in my memory of Hawaii. Dr. Peter H. Buck, Curator of the Museum, spoke in one of the beautiful patios at the Academy of Arts about the canoes on exhibit there, used by the Polynesians. In his lecture, he included chants of the Polynesian sailors learned from his Maori mother's people, and this added reality to his comments. The accomplishment of the Polynesians in crossing approximately 2,000 miles of sea in open canoes made with stone implements, with only their limited knowledge of currents and stars to guide them, is exceedingly impressive. No maps, no motors, no metal, no compass — only the rudder, oars, and sails of matting for aid. No wonder chants were addressed to the rudder and to the oars as if they were personages! Another evening at the Academy I was thrilled with Iolani Luahine's dancing of the ancient hulas and the commentaries by Mary Pukui. Too much has been lost in the modernization of the hulas for night clubs.

Hawaiian people I have met have a dignity and graciousness all their own. The hospitality they offer rivals that for which the South is famous.

The islands are dependent upon shipping to an extent that cannot be realized until one lives here. During the shipping strike last fall, it was a curious thing to see what items disappeared from the stores. The lack of rice for Japanese and Chinese families caused a great deal of hardship. Even though quantities of foodstuffs are grown, there is not enough for all the people living in the islands.

Even in peace time the Armed Services are much in evidence, for Oahu is a naval base and an armed fort. Some twenty plantations in the islands grow sugar cane and their common experiments in growing cane are outstanding in this kind of agriculture. The second large industry is based on pineapple growing, and the Dole Pineapple factory is well worth visiting for a study of its methods. Hawaii has become American in many ways and is eager now to become a state.

My work as Fourteenth Naval District Librarian has been strenuous, for the period of reorganization now familiar to all of us hit us amidstships. Peace time plans have been made and partially executed in the face of a vanishing staff. The visit of the Pacific Fleet during March for maneuvers will add to our schedule, for we have a book exchange for libraries aboard ships. In addition to our ships' exchange, the professional librarians (two of us now) visit station libraries, maintain a central library, and keep in touch with the outlying islands (including Midway and Johnston) by correspondence. Since almost all of the branches of the Navy are represented here in one way or another, the Fourteenth Naval District covers the activities of a miniature Navy and is a stimulating place to work.

The Home Economics Foundation at Woman's College

By
Frances Newsome Miller '42
Secretary of the Foundation

The movement for establishing privately financed foundations to supplement the State's program of higher education for the youth of North Carolina has rightfully embraced Woman's College.

The Home Economics Foundation, to operate through Woman's College, was chartered under the laws of the State in July, 1946, and was organized at a meeting on the Woman's College campus late last October. The success of the Foundation was assured by the acceptance of the presidency by former Lieutenant-Governor R. L. Harris of Roxboro.

Actually, the work of forming such a Foundation took several years. The idea was birthed by two of our own—Miss Margaret Edwards, head of the Department of Home Economics at Woman's College, and Mrs. Sue Ramsey J. Ferguson '18, Taylorsville.

In 1945, Governor Cherry appointed a committee from the University Board of Trustees to investigate and report on the advisability of organizing such a Foundation. That committee, headed by Charles A. Cannon of Concord and composed of H. D. Bateman of Wilson, S. M. Blount of Washington, Mrs. R. S. Ferguson of Taylorsville, George S. Coble of Lexington, and Mrs. L. I. Miller of Raleigh, served as the core from which the Foundation sprang.

The Foundation has 122 incorporators, many of them among the most prominent citizens of our State. Its directors are R. L. Harris, Mrs. Sue Ramsey J. Ferguson, H. D. Bateman, S. M. Blount, Charles A. Cannon, George S. Coble, Mrs. Frances Newsome Miller '42, Thurmond Chatham of Elkin, Mrs. B. B. Everett of Palmyra, A. G. Meyers of Gastonia, John C. Lockhart of Greensboro, Mrs. Elizabeth Dillard Reynolds of Winston-Salem, John Umstead of Chapel Hill, James A. Gray of Winston-Salem, D. Hiden Ramsey of Asheville, Mrs. Laura Weill Cone '10 of Greensboro, Mrs. May Lovelace Tomlinson '07 of High Point, J. Spencer Love of Greensboro, Emery B. Denny of Gastonia, T. Clarence Stone of Stoneville, Tom Pearsall of Rocky Mount, James Ficklen of Greenville, David Clark of Charlotte, C. A. Fink of Spencer, Joe L. Blythe of Charlotte, Mrs. Stella Williams Anderson '23 of West Jefferson, and Mrs. Rosa Blakeney Parker '16 of Albemarle.

The need for the Home Economics Foundation, functioning through Woman's College in service to all our people, is clear. Agriculture and industry in North Carolina have done their part in developing the material wealth in the State. But their developments, which have brought increased income to our citizens, are of little value unless the total social life of our families and homes parallels the development of our material wealth.

The Home Economics Foundation is a means for bringing to all classes of people the knowledge that now is ours for improving all phases of home life.

In the Woman's College plans for the future, there is a prominent place for the Home Economics Foundation. The work of the college in this field already has received recognition, although it has been limited in its scope because of the lack of funds for research and further work in fields above the undergraduate level. The Foundation will make it possible for the college to expand its research and graduate work by the purchase of special equipment, by supplementing salaries to bring to Woman's College outstanding persons in the field of Home Economics, and by providing for the distribution of information to those who make the homes and those who serve the homes and institutions in North Carolina.

The objectives adopted by the Foundation are:

1. To better enable North Carolina families to live with maximum values in food, housing, clothing, textiles, and furniture and to conduct the family operations and relationships at minimum costs in money, time, and labor.

2. To serve the institutions of North Carolina in nutrition, housing, textiles, furniture, clothing, and any other phase of home operation leading to greater service to the people of the State.

3. To serve the industries of the State in achieving more satisfactory production from the consumer standpoint.

4. To develop a strong teaching program by helping to obtain and keep outstanding and highly trained personnel in this field.

5. To develop strong research programs in foods, nutrition, clothing, textiles, housing, equipment, furnishings, consumer buying, standards of goods, money management, care of household goods, child care and training, teacher education, institution management.

6. To offer short service courses in the home communities by correspondence and by radio on various subjects of home economics for all citizens of the State.

7. To publish and distribute service bulletins and reports of research and studies on various subjects of home economics.

8. To sponsor various projects to stimulate and help to improve the home and institutional life of this State.

A number of Woman's College alumnae are already familiar with the purpose and plans of the Home Economics Foundation, and some of them are giving much time and effort to the Foundation during its early and important work.

There is a real need for the assistance of every alumna—in supporting the work of the Foundation through your clubs, your classrooms, and your other affiliations. Each of you has seen ten thousand times the need for just such a Foundation in North Carolina. You have seen it in the disrupted families of your community, in the undernourished children of your classroom, in poorly clothed people, in poorly constructed houses, and in poorly managed homes.

Here, surely, is one opportunity for Woman's College to lead the State, to lead even this entire region, in providing the means for the most important single unit in a happy world—a happy home.

The campus was honored on February 27 with a visit by a delegation from the Sir Walter Cabinet — the real power, as everybody knows of course, behind the legislative throne in Raleigh! These First Ladies came from the State Capitol in an especially chartered bus. Their first stop after arrival was in Alumnae House. Here they were greeted by alumnae officials and other members of the faculty at a coca-cola half hour, and welcomed in brief talks by President Frank P. Graham, and Chancellor W. C. Jackson. A tour of the campus followed, with an interlude for luncheon in the home economics building, as guests of the Department of Home Economics. Returning to Alumnae House at 4:00 o'clock for coffee, our guests heard a bit more about it and about, the topic always being, somehow, the Woman's College — what it is, what it may become. In the late afternoon, we parted with our guests reluctantly, but with high hope that they will come again as individuals and watch with us the progress of their state's college for women.

The party was composed of the following: Mrs. R. Gregg Cherry, wife of the Governor of North Carolina; Mrs. J. Melville Broughton, wife of the immediate past Governor of this state; Mrs. George T. Penny, wife of the Senator from Guilford County; Mrs. R. S. Ferguson, state senator from the 28th senatorial district; Mrs. Frank Hutton, wife of one of the Guilford County representatives; Mrs. Frank P. Graham, wife of the President of the University of North Carolina; Mrs. J. C. Burleson, Mrs. E. B. Denny, Mrs. Ronald Hocutt, Mrs. Rivers Johnson, Mrs. W. H. McDonald, Mrs. Allison L. Overby, Mrs. J. K. Powell, Mrs. R. Grady Rankin, Mrs. Paul A. Reid, Mrs. A. A. F. Seawell, Mrs. Walter Stearns, Mrs. T. Clarence Stone, Mrs. A. B. Stoney, Mrs. E. T. Tonissen, Mrs. J. V. Whitfield; also the following guests: Mrs. R. J. M. Hobbs, Mrs. W. T. Martin, Mrs. William T. Pressley, whose husband is President of Peace College, Mrs. Bill Sharpe and daughter, Betty Lou Sharpe '48, Betty Brown Denny '47 and Sarah Denny '49, daughters of Mrs. E. B. Denny, and Frances Stone '47, daughter of Mrs. T. Clarence Stone.

Notes from Local Associations

Alamance County Association

Initiated by Clyde Norcum, chairman of the Woman's College Alumnae Association in Alamance County, 130 alumni and alumnae of the Consolidated University in this county gathered on the evening of February 22 for a dinner meeting at the Alamance Hotel, Burlington. Judge A. M. Carroll, representing Carolina, served as toastmaster and introduced the special guests. Chancellor W. C. Jackson, of Woman's College, was the featured speaker. His theme in brief was this — We have not profited by past mistakes made in post-war reconstruction; therefore the need is even more apparent for a stronger, more thoroughly consolidated University of North Carolina. The business of the University is to hold the light high and clear — a great university is the most important agency which exists for the furthering of civilization. "We have therefore a great opportunity in the three groups represented here tonight to build a great country," the chancellor said. Bill Kirkpatrick, alumnus of State College, was soloist of the evening, with Virginia Caruthers '43 accompanying. Cora Harden Stratford '46 led college songs. Jean Holmes McAdams '45 read telegrams of greeting from Clara B. Byrd, alumnae secretary at Woman's College, absent because of another meeting; from Roy L. Williamson, of State College, and from Dean E. L. Mackie, of Chapel Hill. Lucy Hatch Brooks '16 was in charge of the effective tri-color decorations, representing the three schools.

Margaret Plonk Isley, Secretary.

Atlanta (Ga.) Club

On April 12, the Woman's Club House in Atlanta was the scene of a luncheon, festive in the college colors, gold and white. This was our first gathering since the war ended. Vella Swaim Washburn, president, spoke words of welcome. Eva Lee Sink Weir, vice president, and chairman in charge of arrangements, graciously presided and introduced the speakers. It was a great pleasure to have two guests from Woman's College — Chancellor W. C. Jackson, and Clara Byrd, alumnae secretary.

As the opening feature of the program, Mrs. Weir called on each alumna to introduce herself personally and professionally, and we learned that a great many interesting people and interesting jobs are represented in our group. Dr. Jackson made a fine talk on "Taking the Long Look," bringing back to former students present recollections of hours in his history classroom. He also told us about the expansion program ahead of the college, and renewed our pride in our alma mater. At our request, Miss Byrd told us about the now famous Arts Forum held annually on the campus. Also at our request, she followed with her conception of the enlarging place of women in the work of the world, illustrating from our own alumnae. In conclusion, on behalf of the Atlanta Club, she presented to Mrs. Tallulah DeRossette Peschaw, class of '00, and Mrs. Florence Smith Cannon, Com. '05, each, a book as a remembrance of the college — a gift which they deeply appreciate.

At this meeting, new officers were elected as follows: chairman, Frances Mauney White; vice chairman, Catherine Wharton Montague; secretary, Evelyn Caviler Bash; treasurer, Nell Tyson Jernigan.

Florence Smith Cannon,
Retiring Secretary

Buncombe County Association

With Virginia Terrell Lathrop, chairman, presiding, Buncombe County alumnae met for their fall meeting at a luncheon, held on December 14, at the S and W Cafeteria, Asheville. The legislative program of the college was presented and discussed, and a Legislative Committee, with Lyl Reynolds Shoemaker as chairman, was named. The Chapel Fund also came in for major attention, and it was decided to ask every alumna in western North Carolina to take individual action to secure donations for this fund. Another important committee — one to interest high school girls in Woman's College, has Ruth Fanning as chairman. Ethel Keiger Bollinger presented the statement of Laura Weill Cone concerning maintaining Woman's College as a woman's college — not as a co-educational institution, and the group went on record as endorsing Mrs. Cone's stand.

Davidson County Association

Attractive Municipal Club House, Lexington, was the place of meeting of Davidson County alumnae, on the evening of December 10. Arriwona Shoaf, acting chairman, under whose leadership the group assembled, presided. Flossie Harris Spruill introduced the chief speaker, Dean Harriet Elliott. She presented in detail the request for permanent improvements which the College will make of the forthcoming Legislature, urging the alumnae to support this request with all their power, and appealing also for their further support in keeping Woman's College a college strictly for women. Miss lone H. Grozan, president of the Alumnae Association, also urged the support of this all-important legislative program. Clara B. Byrd, alumnae secretary, spoke briefly for the future advancement of the college — in prestige, scope of service, and enrichment of opportunity. At the conclusion of the program, delicious ices, in Christmas symbols and colors, and cake were served by the hostesses, during which much conversation brought the group still further up to date with happenings both on and off the campus. New officers were elected as follows: Chairman, Arriwona Shoaf; vice chairman, Flossie Harris Spruill; secretary, Louise Justice

Forsyth County Association

With the YWCA in Winston-Salem as the very pleasant setting, Forsyth alumnae gathered on the evening of February 19, and regardless of wind and weather, had a fine and well-attended meeting. Bonnie Angelo, chairman, presided. Mr. C. W. Phillips, from the college, was the chief speaker. We were delighted to hear him report on the state of the union, as well as the expansion program ahead of the college. Miss lone H. Grozan, president of the Alumnae Association, was also present. She talked briefly regarding the work of the Association. The question of co-education was brought up, and promptly put down in the negative by our group. We also voted to purchase a $100 bond for the Chapel Fund, taking the amount from our present treasury.

The following new officers were elected: Chairman, Annie Preston (Heilig) Farrington; vice chairman, Billie (Wall) Carter; secretary, Virginia Harris; treasurer, Claude Poindexter.

Bonnie Angelo, Immediate Past Chairman

Guilford County Association

Guilford County alumnae were called to meet in Alumnae House on the evening of November 22. Betty Brown Jester, chairman, presided. At this meeting new officers were elected as follows: Chairman, Mary Cecile Higgins Bridges; vice chairman, Florence Pannill; secretary, Margaret Johnson; treasurer, Irene Rich Murphy. The group also decided to omit the Benefit Bridge Party, at which the Scholarship Fund is usually raised, and this year collect the fund by another method. The Bridge Benefit will likely be resumed next year.

New Jersey Association

Meeting One: Saturday, October 26, was the birthday of the New Jersey Alumnae Association. Congratulations to the alumnae of New Jersey: congratulations to the Woman's College; an orchid to Katherine (Levis) McCormick, New Brunswick, N. J., who so successfully sponsored the event.

Seventeen alumnae met that Saturday, from 3:00 o'clock until 5:30, at the New Jersey Historical Society, Newark. The first hour featured a tea, much happy conversation about it and about, and remembering when. Items of interest and material from the Alumnae Office were also freely circulated, stimulating still further, if that could be, the enthusiasm already in evidence. At 4:00 o'clock, these seventeen got down to business. They voted the New Jersey Association into being; they elected Katherine McCormick chairman; they decided to have another meeting in the early spring when additional officers would be chosen; they made each person present a member of the attendance committee; they also decided that in connection with the second meeting an effort would be made to secure $6.25 from every alumna possible, so that one E Bond could be purchased for the Chapel Fund for every three alumnae. All hail and all success!

Meeting Two: Twenty-two alumnae in New Jersey, representing several cities, gathered at the Robert Treat Hotel, Newark, for a luncheon meeting on March 1. Katherine Levis McCormick, our efficient chairman, presided, and as special guest for the occasion, we had Miss Byrd, our alumnae secretary, from the College. During the first half of the program, we completed the organization begun at the former meeting, electing Doris McRoberts and Marilyn Jackson, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. A constitution and by-laws was also discussed and adopted, and several other items of business handled. The group decided upon April 1 as a deadline for sending in contributions to the Chapel Fund — our first fund-raising effort. Plans for another meeting before June, or early next fall, were also discussed. Miss Byrd, in her talk, brought much news of the campus, as well as information about the proceedings of the Legislature. We were much encouraged and pleased by her report, and also got the feeling that Greensboro and our College are not after all very far away.

Marilyn Jackson, Secretary.

Pitt County Association

Alumnae of Pitt County, together with seniors at Woman's College home for the holidays, met for luncheon on December 30, at the Old Towne Inn, Greenville, with State Senator Arthur B. Corey, Rep. Sam O. Worthington, and Rep. Frank M. Kilpatrick, of Pitt County, as special guests. LaRue McLawhorn Castelle, chairman of the Pitt County Alumnae Association, presided and did the honors.

After the luncheon, Elizabeth Lewis Mims presented the question "Is Woman's College to remain definitely a woman's college?", using the article by Laura Weill Cone on that subject and an editorial from the Carolinian as the basis of her reply in the affirmative. Following her, Elizabeth Hinton Kittrell, member of the Special Alumnae Legislative Committee, spoke on the subject "Is Woman's College to grow and develop to be 'second to none'?" In the discussion, the seniors took part, and alumnae in general added their own ideas from time to time.

Each of the honor guests also spoke briefly. They were cognizant of the needs of the educational institutions in North Carolina, of the health program, and other important measures before the people of the state; nevertheless they pledged their support of Woman's College in every way possible. Considering the nearness of the Christmas festivities, the luncheon was well attended, and those in charge expressed themselves as believing that the occasion will bear good fruit.

LaRue McLawhorn Castelle,
Chairman.

Richmond (Va.) Club

Sponsored by the alumnae of the Woman's College Alumnae Club, a dinner meeting with the alumni of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and the alumni of State College, Raleigh, was held on the evening of April 25, in Richmond. President Frank P. Graham, of the Greater University, was our guest and speaker for the occasion. It was a great privilege to have him — we considered ourselves most fortunate. Lapel cards were provided for all those who attended, and they were attractive to see as well as useful for identification. After the dinner, a short business meeting was held by our group, and the following officers elected to serve next year: Chairman, Dovie Kinlaw; vice chairman, Thelma Bennett Bashaw; secretary-treasurer, Eleanor Bundy.

Dovie Kinlaw Lee, Retiring Secretary.

Thomasville Association

The Thomasville Alumnae Club entertained the 45 senior high school girls on Thursday afternoon, February 6. The meeting, held in the attractive high school cafeteria, was in charge of Maxine Moore Hamilton, chairman. Dean Harriet Elliott and Clara B. Byrd, alumnae secretary, were special guests from College. Miss Elliott in her talk stressed the importance of a college education and in addition gave a general picture of life at Woman's College. Miss Byrd emphasized certain types of student activities. Students now at Woman's College from Thomasville were also special guests, and were presented individually to the group. At the conclusion of the program, a plate of dainty refreshments, with decorations in college colors, was served.

Warren County Association

Meeting One: With Heath Long Beckwith as the inspiring and guiding spirit, alumnae in Warren County met on October 21, at the home of Mrs. Beckwith.

to reorganize the Warren County Association. In her opening remarks, Mrs. Beckwith gave a report of the regional meeting held in Rocky Mount in April previous, reviewed the talk by Dean Elliott on the London Conference, and showed an illustration of the proposed expanded campus of Woman's College, with Walker Avenue closed. Copies of the ALUMNAE NEWS were passed around, and the chairman also read a letter from Clara B. Byrd, alumnae secretary, giving suggestions concerning the plan of organization and its activities.

At this meeting a constitution was adopted and officers elected as follows:

Chairman, Heath Long Beckwith; vice chairman, Minnie Rodwell Foster; secretary-treasurer, Evelyn Smithwick Turner. It was decided to meet again on November 18.

Meeting Two: The second meeting of the Warren County Association was held as scheduled on November 18, at the home of Evelyn Smithwick Turner, Warrenton, with Heath Long Beckwith presiding. Various items were taken up and discussed with interest — among them the Home Economics Foundation; the raising of the Chapel Fund; the Legislative program. Mrs. Beckwith stated that she had talked with Rep. John H. Carr, member of the Budget Commission, urging his support of the request made by Dean Jackson for appropriations for permanent improvements. He had been most courteous, but of course could not promise anything at that time. Regarding the Chapel Fund, all present agreed that this fund is a worthy undertaking, but decided to take no action at this time other than to name Vernon Batchelor as chairman of the Chapel Fund Committee. Minnie Rodwell Foster was appointed chairman of the High School Committee. It was decided to have simple refreshments at each meeting, and to hold the next meeting on January 6, at the home of Miss Batchelor.

Meeting Three: Vernon Batchelor was hostess to our group on the evening of January 6, at the home of Mrs. Claude Bowers. Heath Long Beckwith presided. The chairman announced one new committee, in addition to those already reported — the program committee, with Margaret Paschal Williams as chairman. The Chapel Fund was again discussed. Every one was asked to give as much as possible for this Fund to Miss Batchelor, chairman of the committee, sometime before the next meeting. Mrs. Beckwith briefly reviewed the Seminar program held at the College last fall. The group decided to have another meeting this spring, with a speaker from the campus, if possible. The chairman was asked to contact Miss Byrd about this. Mrs. Beckwith, in her capacity as chairman of the Legislative Committee, told of her work with our representative. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Bowers, served tea and sandwiches as a concluding item of our very good meeting.

On May 10, we have planned a luncheon meeting, and are expecting to have with us at that time two guests from the college — Mr. Gregory D. Ivy, head of the Department of Art, and Miss Byrd, our alumnae secretary.

Evelyn Smithwick Turner, Secretary.

Wayne County Association

Under the capable leadership of Rachel Dunnagan Woodward, 45 alumnae of Wayne County and their guests came together for a dinner meeting at Hotel Goldsboro, on the evening of December 4. The tables in the banquet hall were festive with Christmas decorations, and an attractive booklet, carrying the program of the evening, menu, and other interesting items lay at each plate. Mrs. Woodward, as presiding chairman, did the honors of the occasion. Rachel Clifford, remembered by many alumnae as the executive secretary for the 50th Anniversary Celebration, but now with the Veterans Administration, introduced Chancellor W. C. Jackson, of the college. He made the principal address of the evening, presenting forcefully the cause of the Woman's College in general, and the legislative program in particular. The chairman next introduced the president of the Alumnae Association, Miss Ione H. Grogan, who brought a short message, and the alumnae secretary, Clara B. Byrd, who spoke briefly. It was a fine evening, and much appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Woodward and her assisting committees for their excellent work.

To those who knew Daphne Carraway — and her friends are legion, the recent appearance of a little book of stories, entitled The Teachers Book Of Stories, adapted for the story hour, from the Graphic Press, Inc., Raleigh, is a happy event. Daphne passed from this earthly plane in 1933, following an automobile accident, but she left behind her a host of happy memories of her art as a story teller — an art which people in all parts of the United States had enjoyed as she told them of chataqua audiences and to community gatherings. Professionally she was known as "The Dixie Story Lady." Her ability in this field was highly recognized when she was elected president of The National Story League of America. The book about which we are writing contains eight stories; the foreword is written by Miss Hattie S. Parrott, of the State Department of Public Instruction. Follows a most attractive pen and ink sketch of Miss Carraway. We commend the book, not only to teachers, but to any person who finds enjoyment and release in the reading of a good story, or in hearing one told.

Ethel (Wells) Moore's daughter, Carolyn, is a sophomore at Woman's College. "I help my husband in his office during the week; then my maid goes home on Saturday at noon — you know what that means for the week end. Nevertheless, I am serving this year as president of the Reidsville High School Parent-Teacher Association, and naturally, right at this time, we are very busy." Ethel is also active in the work of her church. She is superintendent of the Intermediate Training Union, and has recently accepted the chairmanship of a new committee — the Council on Religious Education. This committee is composed of the pastor, director of religious education, chairman of deacons, superintendent of the Sunday School, director of the training union, president of the Woman's Missionary Society, head of the music department, and other church leaders.

Juanita (McDougald) Melchoir still lives in Syracuse, N. Y., where she is a leader in civic and social work. She and her husband spent last Christmas in North Carolina.

1918

Gladys (Murrill) Werner writes from Malverne, L. I. "You should see my granddaughter! She is a 10-months-old blonde, and is tops in my estimation. Her father is a doctor in the Navy, temporarily. My other three children are still in college."

Florine (Rawlins) Hassell is president of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs. The Biennial Convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs will meet in Detroit, Mich., April 20-27 — the first national meeting of this organization since the beginning of the war. It will attract thousands of musicians, and Florine has been busily engaged in rounding up a large delegation from North Carolina.

Rebecca (Cushing) Robertson lives in Montreal, Canada. She has two children — a daughter Josephine 14 and a son Charles 11. Recently Rebecca, with her husband and children, visited for several days in New York City. Included in their tour was a visit to Dr. Gudger at the American Museum of Natural History. Rebecca says she still has plenty of tar on her heels, even after 16 years of Canadian snow.

Eoline (Everett) May writes from Union, S. C., "where we are living on our farm, Route 2, Gordon, my husband, is associate professor of mathematics at Wofford College, and commutes daily to his classes there. The boys — Graham and Gaylord — you haven't forgotten they are twins? — are 13 years old, and are in the 9th grade in high school. They commute to Union by bus. I plant flowers here at 'Maylawn,' do all the other things that a homemaker does, and sometimes dream of taking advantage of the peace and serenity of the place to put into words the book that has so long been in my mind. It has taken a little time to get adjusted to living here in the country after so many years in Danville, Va. One Sunday last fall we drove to Brevard and had a delightful visit with Marjorie Craig '19, who is teaching English, you know, in Brevard College. Mary Johnson, another classmate, came over for a visit with us the latter part of last summer. And so time goes on!"

Lone (Mebane) Mann was on the campus a few hours early in December, having come to Greensboro to attend a meeting in connection with Girls' State. She has been the moving spirit in this fine undertaking.

Alma (Rightsell) Pinnix, president of Pinnix Realty Company, is making her headquarters in Charlotte, while she and her brother, associated with her in business, are selling the mill village of Cramer-ton. This sale involves some 600 houses.

1920

Carrie (Tabor) Stevens has the distinction of being a grandmother — her first experience! A son, Troy Marcus Long, Jr., was born on December 22, 1946, to Carrie's oldest daughter, Blanche, class of 1944, and a graduate of Queens College.

1921

Vera (Ward) Peacock lives in Chapel Hill, where her husband is a member of the University faculty. Their oldest son, Erle E. Jr., is a student in the Medical School of the University, and is the president of the Whitehead Medical Society. This organization is composed of the students in the University Medical School. As in the case of election to Phi Beta Kappa, the presidency of the Whitehead Society is the reward for excellence in scholastic work — the student who makes the highest grades in the first year medical course automatically becomes president of the society at the beginning of his second year. Erle, only 20 years old, was discharged from the Navy in the summer of 1945: was a student in the University of Pittsburgh Medical School in the 1945 fall quarter, but transferred to the University of North Carolina Medical School in January, 1946. But to collect "firsts" is the rule in the Peacock family! Ward, the other son, won first honors in last year's senior class at the Gordon Military College High School, Barnesville, Ga., and was valedictorian of his class at graduation last June. Vera and Mr. Peacock of course sat proudly in the audience — and maybe, as is the way of parents sometimes, they said the speech too as they sat. Ward is a freshman at Carolina, in the General College. But who would expect otherwise from sons of Vera Ward, still remembered with affection on the Woman's College campus, not only for her blonde charm, but for her fine work as general secretary of the YWCA.

Iola Parker writes that she and her family have at last deserted "the old homestead" in Rocky Mount for one of these little comfortable, convenient, modern numbers, with no mantels, no panelling, no high ceilings, and no drafts! "Drop in for a cup of tea sometime."

1924

If the Alumnae office were called upon to put a title under the Christmas picture of James Lloyd, young son of Mary (Brannock) Blaich, and Dr. Blaich — both former members of Woman's College faculty, taken at the age of 8 months, it would be something like this — "The Happy Warrior," although there were a few votes for "The Happy Judge!" So it remains for James Lloyd himself to decide whether he is going to be a general in the Army, or make the Supreme Court! At any rate, all of us unite in saying that just to look at the handsome little fellow brightens up the whole day.

Marita (Frye) Carrithers is living in Hickory, teaching in the city schools.

Florence (Winstead) Lee directs the choir of the First Baptist Church, in Rocky Mount, her home.

Estelle (Aycock) Ballance lives in Fremont. She has four children, the youngest of whom entered school last September.

Blanche (Dellinger) Hamrick is living now in New Orleans. Her daughter, very talented in music, is a student at Sophie Newcombe.

Mattie Erma (Edwards) Parker taught last fall in the Department of English, State College. Her husband is a member of the faculty there, in the Department of Geology.

Margaret Hight is dean of women at Centenary Junior College, Hackettstown, N. J. She is much interested in the drive, which that college is now engaged in directing, for a larger endowment and more buildings.

Fannie (Northrop) Kletzien now calls Saginaw, Mich., home, having recently moved there. She lived for three years previous in Milwaukee, Wis.

Euline Smith wrote from Hamlet the last of January that she was at that time awaiting passage back to Korea to resume her work on the mission field. Her namesake, Euline Fisher, is a freshman at Woman's College.

Maxine (Taylor) Fountain's husband, Dr. A. M. Fountain, is now a full professor in the Department of English, State College. "The Fountain News Syndicate," released on December 25, 1946, with Marcia and Mark Fountain II, children of the Fountains, as "editors," reached a high water mark of reader interest in Christmas cards this year. The story appears under a Raleigh date line, and lists from day to day, month to month, important events in the Fountain household during the year preceding. Be sure that parties, "with ice cream," came in pretty frequently as "outstanding items!" Included with the newspaper are two illustrations, showing Marcia and Mark II sitting in their miniature office, at their miniature desks. Mark II is evidently a devotee to the hunt and strike method in typewriting, with one baby finger poised over the keyboard for the "strike." The Alumnae Office registers its appreciation to the Fountains, both seniors and juniors, for this Christmas pleasure.

Dr. Lorna W. Thigpen has a new job in Birmingham, Ala. She is associated there with the Jefferson-Hillman Hospital. "This is a large hospital, and the University Medical Center is located here. All together, it is an interesting place to be."

Dr. Vance (Thompson) Alexander is now in Berlin, Germany, where her husband, a lieutenant colonel in the Medical Corps, has been stationed for some time. "We reached Berlin last September, after a 30-day trip from Colorado Springs, and are already getting in some travel to Paris, the French Riviera, Switzerland, and Holland. I hope to get to England. Travel is difficult here too, and one must go equipped with soap, towels, toilet paper, blankets, as well as extra food."

Dr. Eleanor Barton spent the Christmas holidays with her mother in Greensboro. She has recently been promoted from instructor to assistant professor of zoology at New Jersey College for Women.

Minnie B. (Jones) Uscery lives in Blacksburg, Va., where her husband is an associate professor of physics at VPI. "We have been in Blacksburg since 1935. We have three daughters—15, 5, and 1. Four years ago we bought our home, and you can imagine how thankful we are that we did this, now that housing conditions are so difficult. I often see Josephine (Dudley) Obenshain, class of '27. She is the proud mother of three boys, and has a beautiful new home on a large farm. I also see Rachel (Moser) Cobb '37. Her husband is the pastor of the Lutheran church here."

MEBANE HOLOMAN BURGWIN '35

River Treasure. By Mebane Holoman Burgwyn '35. New York: Oxford University Press. $2.50.

River Treasure is a tender story woven from tales about the Occaneechee Neck section of the Roanoke River in eastern North Carolina, and the people who live there. The setting is country which the author knows like a book, since she has lived in eastern North Carolina all her life. Mrs. Burgwyn says she wrote River Treasure as a means of entertaining her four children; and incidentally, one might well believe, also as a way of setting before them fine principles in human relationships. The book exhibits all the elements which children—adults too—like in a story—continuity, suspense, adventure, the triumph of courage and justice. The central figure, Guy, is a lovable little Negro boy, who is sure to appeal to children everywhere. The author has done an excellent job in making the tales of a countryside into a living and moving story.

The noted illustrator, Ralph Ray, native of Gastonia, added the art work which makes the volume complete.

Mrs. Burgwyn is the daughter of Vaughn White Holoman '07, a former president of the Woman's College Alumnae Association. She is the daughter-in-law of Judge W. H. S. Burgwyn, of the North Carolina Superior Court.

Margaret (Beam) Van Dusen is teaching at Cecil's Business College, Asheville. Her son, Donald, is a student at the Loomis School, Windsor, Conn.

Hulda (Brinkley) Turner is a member of the faculty of State College, Department of English. Her husband is an engineer with the State of North Carolina.

Sarah (Foust) Burton, and her small step-son, James, came to Greensboro last December to spend the holidays with her parents. Sarah's husband is a member of the faculty of Notre Dame University. They make their residence at Mishawaka, Ind., not far from the University.

Mary Lou (Fuller) Abbott lives at Lansdowne, Pa., where her husband is principal of the high school. Mr. Abbott is now Dr. Abbott, having recently received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. The Abbotts have two beautiful daughters, 10 and 12. The family visited in North Carolina during the holidays, and stopped in Winston-Salem for a short visit with Virginia (Bette) Johnson '28.

Molly (Hally) Clarke is living in Albuquerque, New Mexico, where her husband is rector in an Episcopal Church. They are happily settled in a new manse, and are enjoying the work. The Clarks have two children, Stephen and Kate.

Caroline (Harris) Henry is living in Texarkana, Ark. Her husband, Hugh, was with the Red Cross during the war, serving in the South Pacific. After returning to the United States, they spent some time travelling about the country, making plans for the future. To help the teacher shortage, Caroline is teaching two math classes two days a week at the Junior College in Texarkana. Hugh is director of recreation for the city.

Mae (Stoudemire) Armstrong lives in Chapel Hill, where her husband is director of admissions at the University.

Margaret (Walters) Bell is back in Babylon, Long Island. Her husband, Larry, was overseas for several years during the war.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. Beachman Wray (Margaret McNairy), a son, J. Beachman Jr., November 14, 1946, Wesley Long Hospital, Greensboro.

Katie (Gravely) Ramm lives in Winston-Salem, where her husband, a lawyer, is legal counselor for R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

Dora Ruth Parks is executive secretary for the West Virginia Library Commission, Morgantown.

Mary (Randolph) Edgar lives in Atlanta, Ga., where her husband is an air conditioning engineer with Carrier Corporation. The Edgars have three children—two sons $5\frac{1}{2}$ and $3\frac{1}{2}$ respectively and a daughter $1\frac{1}{2}$.

1930

Mildred (Brown) Albright lives in Memphis, Tenn. She has two children—daughter Anne $6\frac{1}{2}$ and son Billy $3\frac{1}{2}$.

Elizabeth (Clapp) Collins lives in White Plains, N. Y. Her husband is a physician. They have one daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, born November 3, 1946.

Helen (Felder) Ortiz writes from Chicago, where she is living now. "You would have loved my 2-year-old Mickey at her first Santa Claus conscious Christmas. I am getting back my own Santa thrill from her."

Charlesanna Fox has been in Honolulu for some time, serving with the Navy, as district librarian of the 14th Naval District. "We have been working very hard here, especially because of the drastic cut in our personnel and because of the back log of work resulting from the end of the war—the reorganization of all our service for peace time. It seems to me like 1942 in reverse! I am scheduled to return home next June, since my contract with the Navy will end then. The 14th Naval District, with which I am connected, includes the Hawaiian Islands, and the islands as far away as Johnston and Midway. It has been an interesting experience for me here, and I shall miss many things about Hawaii—its fruits and flowers and beautiful scenery. But it is going to seem mighty good to be back home again."

Pattie Lyn (Moore) Newman has a small daughter, Kay. They live in West Palm Beach, Fla.

After Mat-Moore (Taylor) Merlin's marriage in January, 1946, to Ronald G. Stanton—an Englishman by the way—she and her husband remained in this country for a few weeks and then returned to England, where Mr. Stanton was discharged from His Majesty's Navy in April following. In May, he went to Hong Kong to take up his work with the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company. Because of priorities in travel and other considerations, Mat-Moore was unable to go with him. She did make the trip in July, via India, landing in Bombay and crossing India by land in order to meet her husband's ship at Calcutta. Unfortunately, she landed there in the middle of the August, 1946, riots, and had quite an exciting and dangerous trip across the country. Finally, after being befriended by two British colonels, who saw to it that she received the reservations made from England by her husband's company, and after being whisked through the besieged streets of Calcutta in the truck of a fellow traveler's husband, to a barricaded hotel, her husband was able to get her out into the harbor to his ship. The ship had to lie over there for several days because of the riots. Mat-Moore and Ronald landed in Hong Kong on October 7, 1946. They are living at 13 Cameron Road, Komloon, Hong Kong, China, where Mat says she is learning to bargain in good Japanese style.

Lucile (Knight) Coleman has a little son, Larry 3½. He and Esther (Shreve) Ruffin's Johnny, about the same age, often play together—their parents live quite near each other.

Jane (Johnson) Knowles lives in Pittsburg, Pa., where she is homemaking.

Lola (Payne) Blanks lives in Baltimore, Md. "I am enjoying keeping house here, after four years of war work. I am also enjoying a course in industrial relations at Johns Hopkins University."

Esther (Shreve) Ruffin has two children—Patricia, now in junior high school, and Johnny 3½. Johnny can claim that measles are now a thing of the past. "The little fellow is really our sunshine, and we will hate so to see him uncomfortable. Patricia, in high school, loves Latin and cooking—can you believe it! Sometimes I have wished that I had taken home economics instead of some of the many courses—interesting as they were—which I had in chemistry and biology. I keep busy all the time with 'homework' and a variety of outside interests. No big accomplishments—just happy days." (But perhaps such is the greatest accomplishment of all!)

Jane (Wharton) Thayer spent two weeks with her parents in Greensboro, during the holidays. She carried back to New York with her her small daughter Ann, who had been with Jane's parents for a month.

Marian (Anderson) Owen writes from Ann Arbor, Mich., where she is teaching in the School of Music. "I finished my graduate work here at the University last year, and then the University asked me to join the faculty of the School of Music. I am very busy teaching and giving recitals throughout the state, and all in all enjoying my work very much."

Gwendolyn (Britt) Clifton's husband was a member of the 1947 Legislature, representing Sampson County in the House. Gwendolyn spent the Legislative season with him at the Sir Walter Hotel. "The present student body and the alumnae may know that I am acting as No. 1 lobbyist to make this the 'Woman's College Year.' Deems and I are having many new and interesting experiences. If there is any way that I may serve the alumnae, I shall be happy to do so."

Lucille (Sharpe) Long is homemaking in Birmingham, Ala. She has two daughters—Sandra 10 and Mary Lee 7.

Jerrie (Arthur) Baker is homemaking in Potsdam, N. Y.

Margaret Creech is working in the accounting department of the A & P Tea Company, Charlotte.

Elizabeth (Cromartie) Carter is living in Augusta, Ga. She has two daughters—Betty and Nancy.

Arlene (Fonville) Irvine is living in Nashville, Tenn., where she and her husband own their home. During the war both Arlene and Mr. Irvine worked at the famous atomic bomb plant, Oak Ridge, Tenn.—Walter as a draftsman, Arlene in the office.

Nina (Hall) McDonald is living in Tryon, where her husband is superintendent of Southern Mercierizing Company. Nina says she stopped teaching when they moved to Tryon. "We have one little boy, David Hall 2½. Woman's College is still dear to me, and I think of the place often." Nina's husband served his third term in the State Legislature this year, representing Polk County.

Blanche (Mooring) McKee has one child—Agnes 5½. The McKees live in Charlotte.

Ruth (Owens) Kruse is executive director of the Traveler's Aid Society, Miami, Fla. Her husband is a major in the U.S. Army.

Julia (Watson) Maulden is the "Woman of the Year"—1946—in Kannapolis, where she lives. The Daily Independent, local newspaper, sponsors an election every year to determine the man and the woman whose service to the city is considered to have been most outstanding during the year. Rev. David F. Cooper was elected "Man of the Year." The two were honored at a banquet held in the Cannon Memorial YMCA, with representatives of all local civic organizations, and a number of other persons, as especially invited guests. On this occasion the man and the woman of the year received special certificates, and they will also be given the traditional silver plaques as soon as they are again available. The plaques are awarded as tangible evidence of the place which the winners have achieved through service to their community.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dorsett (Louise Nash), a daughter, Marion, August 30, 1946. The Dorsetts now live in Charlotte.

Sara (Fisher) Beatty lives in Charlotte. She has two children—a son 5 and a daughter 2.

Martha (Hudson) Springs also makes her home in Charlotte, where she is busily engaged in all the things which go with housekeeping. "We have two sons 8 and 10 and two daughters 7 and 2."

Mary Lib (McDonald) Croft is rejoicing in the establishment of her own home in Durham. Her husband returned from Europe some months ago.

Claudia (Moore) Read, still at Mary Washington College, Fredericksburg, Va., writes that she and Lib (Mitchell) Woodward '34, who also lives in Fredericksburg, see each other all along.

Margaret (Pleasants) Little has two small sons—Charles III 4½ and John Anderson 2. Her husband teaches math at State College, Raleigh.

Catherine (Taylor) Hodges is living in Sao Paulo, Brazil, where her husband is representing the International Harvester Export Company. They were sent to Brazil in April, 1946, after their return to this country from internment in the Philippines. In July following, a daughter, Candace, was born in the British Hospital in Sao Paulo. Catherine says the baby is already the queen of the household, to whom they all pay willing homage. "In short, she is a most satisfactory young lady."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Sherman (Suzanne Ketchum), a second daughter, Laura Lyell, October 13, 1946, Williamsburg, Va. Her husband is a member of the faculty of the College of William and Mary, in the Department of Fine Arts.

Mary (Benson) Hassell lives in Eden-ton, where she is filling the role of homemaker. She has two little girls, 5 and 1½.

Cornelia (Calvert) Graham lives at Linwood. "I taught in high school for three years after my graduation, then married a farmer, and now have two boys—one 7, the other 2."

Joe (Kiker) Avett lives at Norwood, where she is homemaking. That job includes keeping up with two fine daughters—one 6, the other 3½. "We have recently moved into our own new home; and after the moving around from place to place which was a part of the war effort, it is a grand and glorious experience."

Lena (Madry) Bazemore and her family have recently moved to Rocky Mount, where her husband is associational missionary for the Roanoke Association of the Baptist Church. There are 78 churches in this field. Mr. Bazemore was formerly pastor of Corinth Baptist Church, Elizabeth City. The Bazemores have 4-year-old twins, a son and a daughter—Billy and Bernie. "The twins gave their first public 'performance' today at our divisional group meeting—they repeated from memory the Lord's Prayer. I had hoped to get back to the College before now for a visit—at least that is something to look forward to. I still love the place."

Mary Elizabeth Bitting is doing library work at Duke University.

Amelia (Block) Myers lives in Savannah, Ga. She and her small son, Stephen Jr., visited Amelia's parents in Greensboro for two or three weeks last December.

Dorothy (Boyles) Thomas lives in Winston-Salem, where she is occupied with the duties of wife and mother. Before her marriage she taught English and French in high school, and is planning to return to the profession next year.

Mildred Bullock teaches an eighth grade in the Oxford schools.

Edna (Cameron) Lorenz is teaching English and history in the Tonawanda, N. Y., High School. She is also keeping house.

Evelyn (Cavileer) Bash writes from Atlanta, Ga., enclosing a picture of small daughter Elaine, "now a big girl a year old." Elaine is quite adept, Evelyn says, at saying certain words—however some of them only her fond parents can understand!

Edythe (Latham) Bloch, living in New York City, spent the Christmas holidays in Greensboro with her parents. While here she was godmother at the baptism of her small niece, Leslie Edythe Latham, at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church.

Christiana McFadyen is studying this year at the University of Chicago.

Adelaide (Porter) McDonald lives in Bolton, Ga., near Atlanta. She has one child, Allen Jr. Her husband is a student in Atlanta.

Sue (Sewell) Nelson lives in Norfolk, Va., where she is teaching a sixth grade in the public school system.

Mary Frances (Young) Plummer lives in Mobile, Ala., where her husband has a bookstore. They have a small daughter, Mary Cameron.

Rebecca (Bohannon) McKinney teaches English, sociology, and also has charge of the library in the South Boston, Va.,

high school. In addition she keeps house.

Hermine Caraway teaches English and history in the Wadesboro High School.

Hilda (Dowdy) Chapman has a daughter, Jeanette Sue, born September 9, 1946. "Her 3-year-old brother can hardly wait for her to grow large enough to play with him. We are happy to have this little girl—you may remember we lost our first child, a daughter, in 1942. Sincerest regards to all my friends at Woman's College."

Eloise (Eland) Watson lives now in Keene, New Hampshire. She says that her husband has been discharged from the Service and is practicing law with his father. The Watsons have a daughter 2.

Mary Felmet teaches English, history, and economics in the Forest City High School.

Elizabeth Grimsley is teaching English and history in Polkton High School. She also coaches the girls' basketball team.

Mary Lucille Hankins is a general field representative of the American Red Cross, with headquarters in Augusta, Ga.

Thelma Killian is doing secretarial work with the firm of Hayes & Hopson, Asheville. She is living at home.

Gladys (Lowery) Burns is teaching English and French in the Wingate High School.

Mildred (Underwood) Blossom lives in Charleston, S. C., where she is "mother and housewife."

Kate Urquhart is now in New York City, associate editor of Travel and Camera Magazine.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John V. Berry (Jesse Douglas), a daughter, Margaret

A Glimpse of the Lake—Woman's College Campus

Elizabeth, October 16, 1946, St. Leo's Hospital, Greensboro.

Annie Crosland is teaching Latin and English in the Rockingham High School. She goes home on week ends to Bennettsville, S. C., to be with her mother.

Selma (Hart) Lawrence teaches a sixth grade in the Norfolk, Va., city schools, and in addition keeps house.

Harriet (Heath) Treverton wrote last fall that she and her husband were on their way to Wrangell, to raise minks. "We will drive to the West Coast, and then take a boat, with our trailer. We expect to go first to the University of Alaska, to study and observe, before going into our own business." Harriet was married in May, 1945. For several years previous, she had had an interesting as well as colorful career. For some time after her graduation, she was an X-ray technician at Ft. Bragg. Leaving there, she went to Gorgas Hospital, in the Canal Zone, where she remained until February, 1944. The following month she enlisted in the Service, and enrolled in the Physical Therapy School at Walter Reed Hospital. "This was the hardest work I ever did in all my life, but it was also the most satisfying." After receiving her commission as a lieutenant, Harriet was assigned to Lawson General Hospital. "There I taught amputees how to walk, dance, and so on. In May, 1945, I was transferred to McGuire Hospital, Richmond, Va., to work with patients who had received spinal injuries, or who were victims of infantile paralysis. I was also married that month. I stayed here until the following November, when I left for Camp Campbell, Ky., where my husband was stationed. We are looking forward very much to a new venture in a new land—certainly helping to raise minks is a far cry from the work I have been doing!"

Clarice (Jones) Foster is homemaking in Georgetown, S. C. She has two children.

Dorothy (Morrell) Lonon is homemaking in Marion.

Mary (Shaw) Harper is living in Jonesboro. Her husband is assistant cashier of the Jonesboro Branch of the Bank of Broadway. The Harpers were married while Mary was overseas with the American Red Cross and Mr. Harper was in the Service. They have a daughter a year old.

Ruth (Westcott) Kibler lives in Rochester, N. Y. She has three children—William 5, Mary 2½, Barbara a little over 1.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Forrest W. Reynolds (Jeanne Carey), a son, Douglas Gardner, June 24, 1946.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coffin Ragsdale (Margaret Hill), a son, Thomas Coffin Jr., December 14, 1946, Greensboro.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John S. Campbell (Eleanor Kerchner), a second daughter, Patricia Anne, October 1, 1946, St. Leo's Hospital, Greensboro. Big sister Peggy 6 is in school this year. Mr. Campbell is now associated with Westbrook Insurance Agency, Charlotte. At home there.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dwight Apple (Evelyn Shepherd), a son, November 23, 1946, Wesley Long Hospital, Greensboro.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Nisbet (Mary Jane Mims), a son, David Mims, October 5, 1946, Wesley Long Hospital, Greensboro.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Creede (Gertrude Rainey), a son, November 6, 1946, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Adams (Annie Laurie Tuberville), a daughter, Susan Carter, November 2, 1946, Wesley Long Hospital, Greensboro.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. L. Newland (Betsy Wharton), a second child, a son, Charles Wear Little, II, Albany, N. Y. "Our oldest son, David Hale, was 3 in January."

Imo J. E. n (Anthony) Middleton teaches math and health in the eighth grade, Sherwood.

Doris (Bowman) Fisher has a daughter about a year old. Doris taught the general sciences in the Concord High School until the early spring of 1946. The Fishers live in Concord.

Elizabeth (Brookshire) Raper is doing library work in Chapel Hill.

Helen (Bumgarner) Bell lives in Wilkesboro, where she is a teller in the bank. Since her graduation, she worked for three years with the FBI. Her husband is auditor for a chain of banks in western North Carolina. The Bells have one daughter nearly 3.

Geraldine Cox is working in the library of the University of Utah.

Rachel (Draughon) Shores is homemaking in Rockingham.

Bettie (Harward) McGlauffin writes from Tokyo, Japan. "Son Mike and I are finally and firmly here in Tokyo with my husband. He was discharged from the Service last June, and is now a budget analyst with THQ of Supreme Command, Allied Powers. And I?—well, I am in school again, going to the AEP School here and learning Japanese, so that I can talk to my servant who speaks no English. I love it here, and shall regret to leave. Some day I will write you about my harrowing trip over and my impressions of Japan. I have heard about several people here who have some connection with Woman's College. There are many Americans in Tokyo, so that contrary to common acceptance, one just doesn't know them all. My son is a little bewildered by everything; still he is quite adaptable for a conservative 3-year-old!" Bettie's husband was a captain in the Army at the time of his separation.

Sarah Wilson Jones received her M.A. degree in Business Education last June, from Woman's College.

Dorothy (Kolman) Wildman writes from Pittsfield, Mass., with enthusiasm for the new apartment into which her small family has recently moved. "We hope we can settle here for a long time. My husband was released from active duty in the Service in May, 1946. He was a major in the Medical Corps. Soon after his separation, he resumed his practice here. I was very proud last October when the Association of Military Surgeons presented him with the Welcome Award—highest honor that organization can bestow—for his research in malaria. He received a gold medal and a cash prize of $500 for his report entitled, 'Active Immunization Against Malaria.' This report was published in the January number of The Military Surgeon. I went with him to the convention of the association held in Detroit—it was a thrilling trip. Our little son is a year old now, and is as active and full of mischief as all little boys of that age. He keeps his mama very busy, but he is worth it all, and a lot of fun. As you know, my sister Helen is a member of the graduating class this year, and we hope to be back on the campus next June to see her graduate."

Doris Leach is teaching English and dramatics in Salem Academy. She had previously taught for two years at Ward-Belmont.

Claudine Lewis writes interestingly from Cleveland, Ohio, where she is an instructor this year in child welfare in the Graduate School of Social Work, Western Reserve University. Claudine received her master's degree from Western Reserve in 1941. "I think I wrote you that during the past two years I set up a social service department in Jones Home—a home here in Cleveland for dependent and neglected children. I came to this new position at Western Reserve last October. I am supposed to be doing full-time work here, but I am still pinch-hitting at my old job at Jones Home, and shall be. I suppose, until they find another casework supervisor to take my place. I never thought that I should end up as a teacher; but I assure you my new work is fascinating—quite a challenge too. And just think!—Dorothy Coley '40 is here at Reserve, a graduate student in social work, on a Red Cross scholarship, and she has signed up for one of my classes! And then another 'nicest thing' happened to me not long ago—I went to the annual meeting of the American School of Social Work in Chicago, and whom should I see but Miss Merib Mossman, here for several months to do a survey on pre-professional education for social work. We talked practically all of two nights—much of the time about Woman's College, so that now I feel very well caught up on the news. But the ALUMNAE NEWS is my stand-by."

Arlene Litchfield is research chemist for Charles Pfizer Chemical Laboratories, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Josephine (Lowrance) Kummer writes from her new home in Elmwood Park, Ill. "After my husband was released from the Service, he returned to his work as an air conditioning engineer with Carrier Corporation in Chicago. We bought the home here in Elmwood Park, and have done a great deal of work, adding some of the things that were omitted in war time construction—have done a good deal of redecorating also."

June (Maupin) Dixon lives in Danville, Va. She writes down her occupation as "housewife."

Marjorie (Moseley) Waters teaches English and French at La Crosse, Va.

Louise (Northcott) Dennis lives in Asheville, where she is homemaking. She has one daughter, Jane 2.

Margaret (Poyner) Kompier lives in Florence, S. C. Her husband is an accountant with Carbide Chemical Corporation. They have one daughter, Margaret Ann 2½.

Marjorie (Pye) Bogle is living in Philadelphia, where her husband is studying in the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Gloria Reagan is teaching in the Ocean High School, Virginia Beach, Va.

Margaret Ryan is now Mrs. T. B. Watkins, Neptune Beach, Fla. For some time after her graduation, Margaret was connected with Association House, Chicago. From there she went to Hawaii, to work at Paloma Settlement. There she met her husband. They have a son 2, described as "chubby, blonde, and blue-eyed."

Olena (Swain) Bunn is studying at the University of North Carolina, taking an M.A. degree. Since her graduation she has taught English and history in high schools in Indiana and Tennessee. Last year she taught in Hugh Morson High School, Raleigh.

Helen (Vessey) Smith is living in Atlanta, Ga. "My husband, two children and I came to this city early last January, and hope to be settled here for some time. Philip 4 and Sandra Kaye 10 months keep me very busy and very much at home. My husband is southeastern district manager for Bendix-Westinghouse Automotive Air Brake Company. I think of the College often, and am hoping to come back for a visit before too long. In the mean time, the ALUMNAE NEWS brings the College to me; and so here enclosed is my membership fee."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Leary III (Agnes Sanford), a son, Stephen Phillips, October 19, 1946, Washington, D. C. "After leaving Woman's College and teaching a year, I came to Washington to study art. When I had finished my course, I taught a children's art course at Abbott Art School, and worked in an art studio as commercial artist. Pete and I were married in May, 1945, and now we are three, and so happy about it all."

Ellen (Axley) Eich lives in Chattanooga, Tenn., where she is librarian at Hixon High School.

Rachel Bright teaches English and history in Roxboro High School.

Betty (Burns) Summerlin is living in Anniston, Ala., where she is homemaking. Her husband is a banker.

Dorothy (Dennis) Worthen moved the middle of last December to Warrenville, N. J. "We have at last found a home of our own in Warrenville, just a few miles north of Plainfield. I enjoy the ALUMNAE NEWS immensely—it is good to keep up with old friends and well-loved places."

India (Hiland) Weber is living at Virginia Beach, where her husband is stationed with the U.S. Engineers in Norfolk.

Virginia (Gaylord) Ayscue is teaching English in Murfreesboro High School.

LETTIE HAMLETT ROGERS '40

Author of "South of Heaven," a first novel. With her in the Photograph are (center) Marion Dillon '48 and Lois Russell '47

Lettie Hamlett Rogers, whose mother is Lettie (Spainhour) Hamlett '05, grew up in China, where her father and mother were missionaries. In South of Heaven, a first novel, Mrs. Rogers, describes the life of a foreign family in that land of ancient culture—especially the life of a child of American parents among the Chinese people. The book is not propaganda; it is not intended to work reformation—"it is just a good story, I hope," says the author herself.

After the book came out last fall, the college library and the dormitories jointly sponsored an "Autographing Party." Each dormitory sold as many copies of South of Heaven as possible, the net profit to be divided among the dormitories on the basis of the number of books sold, the fund thus raised to be used to purchase books for the dormitory libraries. As the alumnae know, for several years the students have been buying books for their dormitory libraries—a permanent collection; and considerable headway has been made on the project. As result of the autographing party, $167 was netted. The contest culminated in a tea, given in honor of the author, held early in December in South Spencer Hall, where Lettie lived as a student. Lettie makes her home in Greensboro with Dr. Lyda Gordon Shivers and Miss Mereb Mossman, both members of the faculty in the Department of Sociology.

tember, 1944. She is living now in Washington, D. C.

Mildred Haugh is still associated with the Statler Hotel System. Her business address is Hotels Statler Company Inc., Hotel Pennsylvania, N. Y.

Grace Evelyn (Loving) Gibson is living in Laurinburg, where she is a busy homemaker. She has a son, John McNelly, born in June, 1946.

Mary Sue Moser is home demonstration agent in Davidson County. "Incidentally, I am also a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Lexington, also member of a garden club, the church Guild, North Carolina Home Economics Association, and the North Carolina Home Agents Association."

Marion (Okell) Murch writes from East Orange, N. J. "My husband, a captain in the Army, came back home from overseas about a year ago, and was delighted with his 15-months-old daughter, whom he had not seen before. After a week in Florida, we settled down to civil life again—a state of affairs which we have enjoyed very much."

Eunice (Outlaw) Stott is a nutritionist with the School-Health Coordinating Service of the State Department of Health.

Sarah (Seawell) Inderfurth has two children—a daughter 4 and a son 6 months. Charlotte is home.

Ann (Shook) Peyton is living in Stillwater, Okla. She was married in April, 1946.

Elizabeth (Quinn) Wolf is living in Sacramento, Calif. The Wolfs went there to make their home after their marriage in 1945. (This was Elizabeth's second marriage.) She has two sons—Barney Nietschman, and Gregory Wolf, who was born in August, 1946. Elizabeth's husband is a state engineer.

Maude I. Staton has been stationed with the Signal Corps in Arlington, Va., for about 3 years.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. William Ernest Brackett Jr. (Alice Porter), a son, William Ernest III, November 12, 1946. Blumore Hospital, Asheville.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Jarvis (Polly Huff), a daughter, Margaret Alice, December 20, 1946. "And of course she's headed for W.C. a few years hence! Enclosed is my membership fee—I would not willingly miss a single copy of the ALUMNAE NEWS."

Mary Anderson enrolled at Teachers College, Columbia University, last January, where she is working toward a master's degree in foods and nutrition. She had previously been a dietitian in the main kitchen of the Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

Dorothy (Banks) Armstrong resigned the first of last July as home demonstration agent in Carteret County. She and her husband spent the next two months visiting his people in Montana and Washington. "We drove through the country, stopping at many places of interest on the way. Our little daughter, Elizabeth Glenn, was born last November 21."

Sue (Bishop) Collins is temporarily in Texas, where her husband, a captain in the AAF, has been stationed for some time.

Florence (Calvert) Glenn lives in Chatsworth, Ga. Her husband is a mining engineer.

Pfc. Roxie Carswell is now in Wiesbaden, Germany, where she is on duty with the 3264th Signal Photographic Service Company, located there.

Mary Evelyn (Case) Corbett lives at Pantego. During the summer months she and her husband are engaged in business at White Lake Crystal Beach.

Helen Fondren is a field secretary for the Girl Scouts, with headquarters in Columbia, S. C.

Katy Ruth Grayson teaches English and French in the Forest City High School. "After my graduation from college, I began to teach at Boiling Springs, but two years ago came to Forest City."

Sigrid (Heine) Brown writes from Mount Clemens, Mich. "My husband returned to the States in July, 1945, after two years overseas in the European War

Theatre. He was a prisoner of war in Germany for 15 months, but he was in good health and suffered no ill effects from his imprisonment. Before he was discharged, he had a 90-day recuperation leave, and as soon as that was over, the last of October, he was formally separated and went back to his old job. In the meantime, we had been married—on August 8. A little cousin, the 5-year-old daughter of Judy (Ullrich) Capps '37, was one of the flower girls. Joan (Blumenthal) Pomerantz '41 was present as a guest. In December of that year we were fortunate enough to find a 4-room apartment, and have been living in it ever since. Guy, my husband, goes to law school in the evening at the Detroit College of Law—he finished his freshman year there in January. During the day, he is probation officer for our county, and I have the job he had before the war—deputy county clerk of our two-circuit courts in Macomb County. I like the work very much, but I am planning to give it up some time this year in order to be more completely a homemaker. Away up here, of course I do not very often see many of my college classmates. But I believe a good many of the girls in our class would be interested to know what happened to Martha Jean Eddy. She started out with the '41's, but at the end of her Sophomore year transferred to Northwestern University, to the Department of Speech, where she was graduated in 1941. For some time she was a radio actress with NBC and CBS, until her marriage to Lt. A. F. Peddie Jr., USNR. They have recently moved to Omaha, Neb., where Mr. Peddie is an announcer with KOAD, the main radio station in that city. During the war, Martha Jean taught at one of the University extension schools in California. You might like to know too that Betty (Smith) Parke '42 lives only one hundred miles north of me, and we hope to get together some time before long. Mary (Lewark) Adams, who was also a member of our class for two years, is in Germany with her husband, a lieutenant in the Air Forces. They have a 3-year-old son, Don Jr. Josephine (Nichols) Klosterman—another two-year member of our class—has a son nearly a year old. Both Mary and Josephine were from Mt. Clemens, my home town. And of course you remember that Judy (Ullrich) Capps was a Mt. Clemens girl also. Marjorie (Roys) Lashley, another Michigan girl, who married a Greensboro boy, works in the same building in which I work. We see one another all along. I certainly do enjoy the ALUMNAE NEWS. I am so far away from Woman's College and the girls I knew there, that the NEWS is my one way of keeping up with them and the college. Please keep our magazine coming out my way.

Mildred (Howard) Williams lives in Richmond, Va. She is studying this year at the University of Richmond.

Clara (Hunter) Fitzhugh visited her parents in Greensboro last fall. She has been hoping to join her husband in Germany, where he is stationed with the Army.

JEAN McDONALD BOUVIER '41

London, England
Before Christmas, 1946

Dear Miss Byrd:

Thanks so much for your very nice letter. I'm sending a wartime snap of Johnny along to you. I'm afraid in the mad dash and rush of getting over here I left all of my pictures home. This one is a bit weatherbeaten.

We moved to an adorable little cottage a couple of weeks ago but expect to move out again in a few more weeks. In fact, our living address seems more uncertain than it was when the Army controlled it. We are fortunate in having Johnny's mother continue to shelter us while we join the throng of 'flat' hunters.

I have been "wrasling" with the rations and queues and doing the cooking. I have progressed to the superior stage of occasionally being able to direct someone else to which counter one gets one ticket exchanged, and so forth, on the rather complicated red tape system. The rations are quite meager and variety is something we dream about on our return to the U. S. A. But we really make out quite well, after all, and at least know we are going to get a certain amount of butter and sugar, for instance, each week. Of course the weeks we get an egg are red letter occasions. I will say this is the country to go through the experimental cooking stages in because the competition of meals in a British restaurant is negligible.

I think that if I wanted people on the street to recognize my nationality immediately I still wouldn't have to put a huge great AMERICAN sign on me. At least we always seem able to spot other American civilians in a crowd. We don't always know what it is, but before we hear them speak we can recognize them. It is amazing how it does seem to be stamped on us by our clothes, faces, or gestures, despite the fact that we are such a poly-gent nation.

After Christmas, 1946

This seems to be a continued next week effort. We have just finished our Christmas—it was a nice one. The main difference in a Christmas over here is the "Boxing Day" which follows it. I think the term boxing originated from the practice of delivering boxes of food, and such, to the poor the day after Christmas. Anyway it still holds good for a bank holiday. We even followed the tradition enough to go to the circus then—everything complete, with a Scotch bagpipe band merrily piping such auld Scotch airs as "I'm A Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Over There," and the U. S. Marine Hymn! I hope you are still having good holidays and whatever year we make it back to the States, I've talked about W. C. so much that we will have to pay it a visit!

Sincerely,
Jean (McDonald) Bouvier '41

Store, Hickory. "I taught commercial work one year at Berryhill, after my graduation from W.C. While my husband was in the Army, I worked in the training department of U.S. Rubber Company, and later in the office of Davidson Cotton Mill."

Helen Kaiser is stenographer for the FBI, Charlotte—a position she has held since graduation from college.

Florence Kitchin is dietitian at Agnes Scott College.

Jean (McDonald) Le Bouvier writes from Portman Square, London, where she has been living since her marriage last September. "If it is possible, I should very much like to have the ALUMNAE NEWS sent to my new name and address, but if you cannot send it out of the country, will you please continue to send it to me at my old home in South Orange, N. J., and my mother will send it on to me here. In any event, I want to be sure not to miss any copies. The best of everything to you. I wish I could drop in at W.C. again."

Blanche Moore is secretary to Thomas I. Pearsall, speaker of the House of Representatives in the 1947 General Assembly. Blanche served in the WAC during the war, with tour of duty in the Philippines and New Guinea.

Emma K. (Mosley) Cross is homemaking in Warrenton. She has one daughter, Nancy Kelley, born in February, 1946. Her husband is a dealer in hardware, furniture, and building supplies.

Helen (Mulligan) Hicks is living now in New York, where her husband is working on his doctor's degree in theology at Union Theological Seminary. "I have returned to my profession as a dietitian, and am back at New York Hospital, where I did my graduate work. I am in charge of the cafeteria for doctors and nurses there. We serve about 2200 meals a day. My husband and I live in Hasting Hall at Union, in two small rooms; but we enjoy dormitory life, along with other married students."

Jane Parker holds a law degree from Duke University Law School, class of 1943. She is now employed in the Claims Division, Department of Justice, Washington, D. C.

Ellen (Self) Parker is homemaking in Henderson.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd C. Melby (Betty O'Neal), twin daughters, Carol Jean and Joyce Helen, November 25, 1946, Raleigh. "My husband is studying engineering at State College, along with many other veterans. We lived for ten months at the college trailer camp, but moved to a pre-fab apartment before Christmas. It is wonderful to have so much space! There are a number of W.C. graduates here—in the trailer camp and in the pre-fabs. We have good times talking about our years at Woman's College. Enclosed is my membership fee—I am looking forward to the next number of our magazine."

Christine (Allen) Wright is living in New York City. Small daughter Laurinda "is our center of interest, naturally. She is a model now for Harry Conover's Agency, and so you may be seeing her picture in some newspaper or magazine during 1947."

Alice (Arey) Croxson is living in Charlotte, where her husband is connected with the Aniline Dye Products Company. The Croxsons have one daughter, Linda, born last September.

Elizabeth (Blauvelt) Pratt writes from Upper Montclair, N. J. "My husband has returned to his work with Bakelite, after separation from the Service, and since the housing situation is so discouraging, we are living temporarily with my family."

Cleo (Brendle) Waltrip is teaching home economics this year in the Greensboro Senior High School.

Jessie (Brunt) Nichols lives in Anaconda, Mont., where she is teaching English in the high school. Her husband is rector at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Anaconda.

Katherine (Coan) Tobin is living in Syracuse, N. Y. where she is connected with the advertising department of the electronics division of General Electric.

Mary Frances (Cox) Wyszynski was discharged from the American Red Cross some months ago. She afterwards became associated with the USO in Balboa, Canal Zone, where she was married last September. Her husband, a sergeant in the Army, saw service in the Pacific before being transferred to the Canal Zone. He expects to receive his discharge in November, 1947.

Catherine Hilderman is a member of the faculty of Meredith College, as teacher of English and drama.

Doris (Holmes) Tinscher lives in Nashville, Tenn. Her husband is an attorney.

Elizabeth Jung writes from Honolulu. "I came out here in March, 1946, intending to remain only a month and then dash back to my job in Washington, D. C. But here I still am! I am really considering the matter of submitting a recommendation to the administration at Woman's College—that all students of the social sciences, botany, education—well, perhaps all students—should take a survey course in what goes on in Hawaii! There is certainly much to be learned here. To the close observer, Hawaii has a compact history of the social processes of this era. The statement so often heard, that there is no place like it, is no exaggeration as I see it. My status here is still uncertain. I do not want to leave the territory until I have seen everything, and yet I am beginning to get homesick. While here I am taking some courses in Chinese at the University of Hawaii. This is by far the most difficult subject I have ever tried to learn, regardless of my racial descent. But you must come here yourself to see just what I mean."

Faye (Korngay) Isherwood is living now in Rochester, N. Y. "After my marriage in January, 1946, I went with my husband to his USCG unit in Ketchikan, Alaska. While there I taught in the schools for several months, and saw much of this really beautiful country. We returned to the United States in May."

Margaret (Little) Boxman spent six months in Holland, when she accompanied her husband back there to receive his discharge from the Dutch Navy. She recently made an interesting talk at a luncheon of the Lady Lions, held in Greensboro, giving numerous details about her visit to Holland.

Peggy (Plummer) Stamps has been given credit as co-finder, along with two doctors, of a brand new disease—Ricketsialpox. Public Health Reports, Vol. 61, November 8, 1946, carries the story of the new disease and its discovery. "As if," says Peggy, "we didn't have enough before! But we are glad enough to know it, if they are sticking around." The article is signed by Robert J. Huebner, senior assistant surgeon, Peggy Stamps, bacteriologist, and Charles Armstrong, medical director, United States Public Health Service. We are proud to have Peggy in such distinguished company, doing such distinguished work.

Frances (Ramsey) Murphy lives in Everett, Wash., where her husband is a radio tester with Western Electric. The Murphys have two sons—Danny 2½ and Rickie 1.

Hilda (Renegar) Fisher and her sister are now at Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York City. They are both associated with the private pavilion of the hospital—Hilda as an assistant dietitian, her sister as a charge nurse. "We left the North Carolina Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem last fall, beginning our work here in October. We live at the nurses' residence, and both of us very much like New York and our work at Sinai. The city is interesting, and our work is likewise."

Theo (Roberts) Creadick is living in New Haven, Conn. Her husband is an architect. "We are planning to stay here until next summer, and then in the early fall drive out to Los Angeles, where we will make our home. Right now I am taking advantage of the GI Bill and going to art school here in New Haven—all day, five days a week, and loving it! This is something I have always wanted to do but never had time for before."

Mary (Sadler) Johnson is living in Raleigh, where her husband is a student at State College. They hope to locate in Charlotte at the close of the term next June.

Doris Sharpe is teaching English this year at State College, Raleigh.

Catherine (Webb) White lives in Bristol, Tenn. She has a son, Harry Jr., nearly 2.

Fannie Ray (Williams) Betts has moved from Aberdeen, Md., to Charlotte. "We have a son, Donald 3, and a little girl, Marianna, born last July."

Blanche (Woolard) Haggard lives in Raleigh. Her husband is a member of the faculty of State College.

1943

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Lentz (Mary Frances Hopkins), a daughter, October 25, 1946, Sternberger Hospital, Greensboro.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Taylor (Eloise Rankin), a son, Roger Greer Taylor Jr., January 9, High Point.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sloop (Margaret Sherrill), a son, Joe Edmiston Jr., October 6, 1946, Mt. Ulla.

Betty (Bendigo) Ratcliff lives in Greensboro. She has two children—a boy and a girl.

Jean Booth is in New York City, private secretary to the manager of Doubleday Book Shops. "Incidentally, I am studying voice."

Grace (Hollingsworth) Carroll now lives in Greensboro, where her husband has opened an advertising agency. Grace works with him.

Mary Louise Clements is supervisor of music in the Shelby city schools.

Dorothy (Cox) Schmidt lives in Silver Spring, Md. Her husband is temporarily an associate in the Department of Chemistry, George Washington University. He plans to resume his medical course next fall.

Annabel (Embrey) Hansen writes from Schenectady, N. Y. "After months of living like tourists, we have found a 6-room flat, where we have been settling into a semblance of family life. We are still buying furniture for our place, and are comfortable, even though one of the bedrooms is still filled with an assortment of luggage, boxes, and so on. My young son Alan is now 9 months old. How can time fly like this! And he already has quite a bag of tricks with which to cajole his fond parents into doing his will. When the last number of the ALUMNAE NEWS came, I stopped everything until I had read it from cover to cover. Our class is doing well at marrying, home-making, and having babies—don't you think? And here again time flies, for it seems only yesterday since we were receiving our diplomas on that platform in Aycock. Right now, here in Schenectady, we are virtual prisoners of winter—ice, snow, sleet, rain, wind—everything of that order. Alan and I are surely looking forward to spring and summer, so that we can get out of doors. Feeding time right now for him, and so again, keep up the good work on the NEWS, and good-by for this time.

Anna (Fake) Townsend is living now in Charlottesville, Va., where her husband is attending the University of Virginia. Anna's stock rates high in the Alumnae Office, for when she sent in her last check for alumnae fee, she wrote on it: for the bank and all the world to see — "For the best magazine published in North Carolina!"

Frances (Glaze) Koestline, wife of a minister, writes that at the General Conference last October, her husband was unexpectedly moved from his former appointment at Welcome to the pastorate of the Methodist Church at Davidson—a considerable promotion for him. "At first we wondered what in the world two Methodists could do in this strong Presbyterian community, but we have received such an enthusiastic and whole-hearted welcome from Methodists and Presbyterians alike that we have come to feel there is a well defined niche for us in the community life here. We have two churches and an 8-room parsonage. Plenty of room now for the nursery we have been wanting. Heretofore, our daughter Twinkie's room' has been a bed in the corner, with toys generally strewn all over the house. Right now I am in the process of redecorating a bedroom to be all her own. She celebrated her second birthday in the midst of the moving melee, and seems totally undisturbed by her change of residence. My parents live in Charlotte, only a few miles away, you know, so that a weekly visit there seems quite the proper thing. Last summer I saw my college roommate, Louise Boatman. She received her M.A. degree from Boston University, as you may know, and is doing psychiatric social work in Boston, and loving it. She is so enthusiastic about her job that I am convinced she has the right one."

Margaret (Grantham) Sherry is living in Appleton, Wis. She has a son.

Betsy Hammer is vice president of Ki Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, Washington, D. C. In this capacity, Betsy is chairman of the rushing committee, and has brought forth some very novel and profitable ideas on how to do it.

Mary Louise Hammer is editorial assistant for Crown Publishers, New York City. "I am rooming with Sally Sieber '42, who has a position here with the American Broadcasting Company."

Jane Holcombe is a dietitian this year at Yale University.

Margaret (Kinlaw) Shields lives at Robbins. She says she is learning firsthand what a busy life a housekeeper can have.

Peggy (Lincoln) Bates writes from Schenectady, N. Y. "Thought you would be interested to know that Alice (Peters) MacMackin '41, Marguerite McCollum '40 and I got together recently, and have plans for another W.C. talk-fest soon. Alice and I went over yesterday to see Woody (Hewitt) Campbell '45, who is at Ellis Hospital recovering from an appendectomy. All four of us are surprised to find so many Woman's College alumnae this far away from North Carolina. Mary Palmer '43 is visiting me now, and after her marriage this spring to an Albany, N. Y., boy, Ben Douglas, she too will be in this neck of the woods."

Helen (Little) Dobrowolski is teaching in a private school, Washington, D. C. Geraldine (Norman) Taylor sends us a Greensboro address—"my fourth address in as many years! My husband will be leaving soon to enter an aviation mechanic school, and so for the time being our daughter and I will be with my family here in Greensboro. Our daughter is a mischievous 2½!—into everything most of the time. She asks her share of questions too and gets her full quota of attention. As you know, my sister, Ella Mae '45, is managing the home economics cafeteria at Woman's College. My youngest sister, Helen, is a junior there. It is good to have our family so well represented. Enclosed is my fee for the NEWS—be sure to keep it coming to me."

Agnes (Pettit) Reilly is living now at Lake Charles, La. "We spent last summer in Vernon, Texas, where my husband was working. I was discharged from the Navy in November, 1945, and my husband was discharged in July, 1946. He was at Lake Charles. My husband is now an instructor in math at John McNeese Junior College. I always look forward to receiving the ALUMNAE NEWS, and reading about Woman's College and my college friends."

Sara (Queen) Brown has been living in Clyde since her marriage last June. Her husband is in business there as a merchant.

Claire (Reaben) Waddell has a son born last September 3 — John Hall Waddell. The Waddells live in Hendersonville.

Merle (Swain) Cory lived for some time in California — first in the southern part, and later in San Francisco. Her son, Christopher Jon, was born in San Francisco about a year ago. "My husband was stationed on the West Coast, and I was there with him. We found San Francisco, especially, an interesting and fascinating city."

Lydia (Taylor) Dorsett is living this year in Winter Park, Fla., where her husband is a member of the drama faculty at Rollins College. Last summer they both worked with the production staff of the Lost Colony, at Manteo. Mr. Dorsett will be remembered by many recent alumnae as a member of the faculty at Woman's College, also working in drama.

Ann (Walker) Vernon and her husband are living in Chapel Hill, where Mr. Vernon is a student in the Law School. "It is a grand place to be, even though things are a little crowded. I have seen quite a number of W. C. alumnae here. It is al-

View of flower garden developed by Flossie A. Byrd '03 at her home in Greensboro. For more than ten years this garden was included among the beautiful gardens opened to the public every spring under the sponsorship of the Greensboro Garden Council. It has also been on exhibit for other tours; and in recent years was listed among the gardens to be visited on the State Garden Pilgrimage.

ways good to get the ALUMNAE NEWS and catch up on campus happenings."

Martha (Williams) Meyer is living in Carnegie, Pa., at Roslyn Farms. She is a busy homemaker.

1944

Born to Dr. and Mrs. Francis P. King (Francis Keel), a daughter, Sallie Haywood, October 8, 1946, Richmond, Va. "My husband is serving his internship here at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. West II (Nancy Kirby), a son, Walter Carr III, January 6, Memorial Hospital, Charlotte.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Park (Anne McBride), a daughter, Virginia Christine, January 1, Marshville.

Doris Bradley attended the National Convention of the Methodist Youth Fellowship, held in Grand Rapids, Mich., last summer. "I am teaching again at LaFayette High School, and staying at home."

Margaret Jo Brock is private secretary in a law firm in New York City. Incidentally, she is taking a course this winter, at New York University, in international politics.

Elizabeth Clay is a director of religious education, working in connection with the program of rural work carried on by the Episcopal Church in the vicinity of Kansas City, Mo.

Mary Agnes (Cochrane) Ward is living now in Troy, N. Y. "My husband and I finally have an apartment in the R. P. I. housing project for veteran students, and it is wonderful to be able to use our own things and feel settled for a while."

Frances (Cooper) Gorman is spending this year at the University of Florida, where she is an assistant in the English Department, and is also taking courses leading to an M.A. degree.

Mary (Daniels) Jones is working in the certifying office of the War Assets Administration, Raleigh. Her husband is a student at State College.

Stella Eiland writes from Beacon, N. Y. She says she often meets W. C. alumnae when she is in New York City, about 60 miles away from Beacon.

Sara (Fulton) Biting is living in Winston Salem, and is continuing to teach in the city schools there since her marriage last August. "Since my graduation from college, I have taught English and the social studies in the eighth grade at Gray High School here. I have really enjoyed my experience as a teacher. The summer of 1945 I spent in Penns Grove, N. J., with Rosalie (Watson) Powell '44, my college roommate and while there, worked with her in a DuPont laboratory, getting some very valuable experience. Since housing conditions are so crowded at Chapel Hill, I decided to stay here while Joe completes his senior year at the University. Of course I can hardly wait until his graduation day comes, when I can begin housekeeping as a full-time job."

Frances (Fountain) Shaw and her husband are living in the Chapel Hill trailer camp, while he is completing the work for his degree from the University. During the war Mr. Shaw served in the Pacific. Frances is working in the office of the Hospital Savings Association, Chapel Hill.

Ruth (Greene) Fulton writes from Orlando, Fla., where she is living at present while her husband is attending a business school, preparatory to returning to Kings Mountain, to enter business with his father there. They were married last summer. "We have a charming little apartment here, and I like being a housewife, I like Orlando too. We certainly could not have chosen a more beautiful place in which to enjoy a long honeymoon. The weather is wonderful here."

Evelyn (Hansen) Sweet lives in Sancti, Porto Rico. "This last year has been quite a full one for me. Not the least exciting event was the arrival of our daughter, Barbara Janice, last July 8. Needless to say, my time is well filled — so well filled in fact that sometimes I wonder where time went before she came. Of course her parents are just plain happy!"

Margaret (Hardee) Whitaker is director of women's and girls' activities for the City Recreation Department, Durham.

Rachel Herring is home demonstration agent in Harnett County, with headquarters at Lillington.

Sarah Hopper has been bookmobile librarian for the Cumberland County Public Library since June, 1946. In May preceding, she had received the B.S. degree in Library Science from Louisiana State University. "As you may know, the public library is located in the historical market house in Fayetteville. Creating additional library service throughout the highways and byways of the county has proved to be a fascinating job, another advantage of living in Fayetteville is the large number of Woman's College girls who are here."

Betty Lou (Howser) Surratt is one of the many trailer-wives whose husbands are studying on a college campus this winter. She is with the group at State College, Raleigh, together with their little daughter Sherry, 20 months old. "There is a number of W.C. graduates in the trailer camp here, and we sometimes get together in an informal reunion. Please keep the ALUMNAE NEWS coming my way — I look forward so much to receiving it."

Edna Anne (Johnston) Lamson is teaching art in the Hugh Morson and Needham Broughton High Schools, Raleigh.

Mary Elizabeth Kirschner's engagement has been announced to David R. Monroe, the wedding to take place the coming summer. The young man is a graduate of Oberlin College. He served four years in the Army — two of these years in the Pacific and Korean Area. He was discharged with the rank of captain. Mr. Monroe is now connected with a furniture establishment as sales manager.

Dorothy (Levis) Munroe is living in Newark, Del. She is teaching chemistry again, part time, at the University of Delaware. "But this time all my students happen to be boys, since boys outnumber the girls here about 5 to 1. I am reluctant to admit it, but I find boys more interesting to teach than girls. Perhaps that is due to the subject I am teaching, or to my limited experience. My husband's schedule is so arranged that he can be at home with our small son, now nearly a year old, while I am at school."

"Adorable" is one of the words that could be truly used in describing Janet Ann. Susannah (Matthews) Newsome's small daughter, as she appeared on a most attractive Christmas card. But that is not the only word applicable to Janet Ann, for the young lady is most daintily impressive.

Kathryn (O'Brien) Pratt is writing now from Charleston, S. C., 321 Churchill Road, Palmetto Gardens, instead of from Maplewood, N. J. "After living from pillar to post for a year, Bill and I have been able to buy our first home, and are now getting settled. I am still working for the Navy, doing a public relations job at the Naval Base, and loving every minute of it. We put out vast quantities of publicity for the Navy, sending it to all papers in the Carolinas and Georgia. Last summer three of us — Ann (Murphy) Parker '44, Mary Agnes (Cochrane) Ward '44 and I, and our husbands — had a reunion at Ann's home, Myrtle Beach, S. C. Our husbands met for the first time then. The poor men didn't have a chance however — what with W. C. gossip going on all the week end! Ann lives in Nashville, Tenn., now and Mac is in Troy, N. Y.; so you see the Yankees and the Rebels got all mixed up after four years at W.C."

Mary Louise (Phillips) Roth lives in Albuquerque, New Mex., where she says that being the wife of a college man is almost like being in school again. "Football games, dances, and even helping out with the lessons, brings it all back. I am working as credit manager in one of the best stores here. One of the best parts about the job is the access it gives me to nylons and other scarce articles. John and I have a nice apartment and we enjoy it."

Ann (Rainey) Weidman is living in New York City. "We are here for good, I hope. You see we moved seven times in ten months, and so the word 'permanent address' sounds mighty pleasant in our ears. As you know, after my graduation I worked in Washington City for a year, doing code for the Signal Corps — I roomed with Mary Grandy '44. I was married while in Washington, and went with my husband to Tallahassee, Fla., where I remained until he was discharged from the Air Corps. We had a five-room furnished apartment there, and believe it or not, we paid only $40 a month for it! And then after the many months of moving from place to place, as I have mentioned, we find ourselves in Big Town. I am working for the Pennzoil Company, exporters, with offices in Rockefeller Center. I have also located Lucy Stubbs '45 here in the center. The town is really full of us alumnae."

Catherine Reeves is with the High Point Memorial Hospital.

Alison (Rice) Willard writes from Somerville, Mass. "We have a son, Scott Everett, who was born last July 11, at Massachusetts Women's Hospital, Boston. My husband is studying in the School of Business Administration, Harvard University, and hopes to receive his M.B.A. degree in February, 1947."

Doris (Sabiston) Keller is living in Jacksonville. "After my husband was discharged from the Navy, we settled here, and I have been deep in the maze of housekeeping and working as part-time laboratory and X-ray technician at the hospital here." Doris is also an officer in the newly organized Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion, in Jacksonville, and has given several radio programs in connection with this work. She is also circle leader of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in her church. "There is quite a colony of Woman's College graduates living in this town, and we enjoy seeing one another all along. The ALUMNAE NEWS is certainly my favorite magazine, so be sure to send me every number."

Ruth (Schohn) Pilling writes from Malden, Mass. "I look forward eagerly to receiving the ALUMNAE NEWS each time it is published. I also enjoy all other bulletins which come to me from the college, and often relive the wonderful years I had there. Come on, you '44's, and give more and more news about yourselves. Here goes for me. I finished teaching in Greenwich, Conn., High School last year, and spent the summer planning my wedding and flying back and forth to Boston. My husband is from Malden, a suburb of Boston, and since our marriage last September, we have been living in Malden. Because of the acute housing shortage here, we are temporarily with his people. Of course we are eager to have a home of our own as soon as we can find one, but with the present arrangement, both of us are able to go to school at night and enjoy all sorts of other activities that housekeeping might certainly interfere with. I have been doing substitute teaching in the Malden schools, and expect to begin work shortly in the editorial department of the Christian Science Monitor. Although Russ, my husband, and I are both Yankees, we lost our hearts to North Carolina long ago—I when I was at Woman's College, and he when at State College during the war. We are hoping to take a trip back one of these days to see or friends there."

Hilda Scott is now connected with the YWCA in Charleston, S. C.

Mable Stirewalt is teaching a sixth grade at Aycock School, Kannapolis, and directing the school glee club.

Myra Stowe is spending her third year at Sullins College, and her second there as head of the Department of Physical Education. "My work is still interesting—few dull moments. I spent the summer at Camp Wyonegonic, Maine, as head of the waterfront. Really love that section of the country more and more. Days off, we spent riding tramways in various New Hampshire ski centers, as well as eating a lobster or two on the rockbound coast. What a life!"

Ruth (Turner) Semaschko is now in Germany with her husband, a captain in the Army, who is stationed with the Military Government in Esslingen. "I have been here since the latter part of August, so that the strangeness of the place is beginning to wear off. The countryside is really beautiful—makes one wonder why they ever wanted to start a war! But the bombed out towns are something that I could not even begin to describe, especially Pforzheim, which the newspaper reporters who have just completed a tour of Europe placed second to Berlin in its demolished condition."

Billie Upchurch is a chemist—in the rayon analytical research laboratory, the DuPont Company, Richmond, Va. "I am enjoying my work here very much, but miss Woman's College more than you could imagine."

Mamie Addington is a chemist with the DuPont Company in Charleston, W. Va.

Roberta Barnett is living in Chambersburg, Pa., where she says she has settled down to a routine job of school teaching. "I always said I would not teach, but here I am at Penn Hall Junior College, teaching Spanish, and what is more—loving it! I spent six weeks at Duke University last summer studying. In September I returned to take the oral examinations for my master's degree. I flew home to Washington that very night, and came on up here the next day. I enjoy the ALUMNAE NEWS very much, and miss it when it does not come. So here is my fee."

Rachel Baxter is associated with Pratt and Whitney Aircraft, West Hartford, Conn., as an engineering aide.

Dorothy Beatty writes from Washington, D. C., that not long ago she noticed the slogan, "We Strive to Excel," painted in bright red letters on a truck of the Crusty Pie Company. "I immediately thought," writes Dorothy, "that they must be smart too, for you see their motto is the same as that of our class!"

Margaret (Bilyeu) Gargano is living in Buffalo, N. Y. She is engaged in writing scripts for the radio.

Jean Dickson and Polly Hill now have an apartment together in Somerville, N. J. "Ruth Eifort visited us recently, and one of the 'features' of the occasion was a daily session about WCUNC."

Mincerva Falkner is doing secretarial work in the Rural Rehabilitation Division, FHA, with headquarters in Raleigh.

Anna Graham is instructor in physical education, St. Mary's School, Raleigh. She is also active in the Raleigh Little Theater.

Mary Hicks is still a chemist with the Texas Company, in Beacon, N. Y. "I still like the job very much."

Betty (Hudson) Driscoll has charge of the band and glee club in the Spencer High School. "My husband and I flew to the West Coast last summer—had a wonderful time."

Elaine (Miller) Odenwald is living in St. Paul, Minn. She wrote last fall about their success in getting an apartment—"all of four rooms! Perhaps that sounds like a big one in these crowded times, but even so there is not enough room for everything."

Joey Miller finished a year as student dietitian at Indiana University the latter part of November, and immediately accepted a job on the staff of the Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis. "I like this section of the country so well that, as you see, I have decided to stay a while. Before I commenced my new work, I went back to North Carolina for a short vacation, and while there, stopped for a bit in Greensboro, where I saw several former college friends. I attended the Convention of the American Dietetic Association the middle of October, and while there saw Miss Blanche Tansil, formerly of the Home Economics Department. Woman's College, but now at the University of Mississippi."

Barbara Pettit writes about her engagement to Eugene Graf—the wedding to be some time in the spring of 1947. "I have a new job also—in the beauty department of Harper's Bazaar. New York City, and I love it."

Shirley Bridgen is a laboratory technician with Vick Chemical Company, Greensboro.

Alise (Reid) Irvin writes from Shelby, where she is keeping house and working at the public library. "I find library work very interesting and also very different from teaching. I greatly enjoy the ALUMNAE NEWS, and would not miss a copy for anything."

Lillian Somers is teaching a first grade for the second year in Broadway.

Martha Ann Strowd received her M.A. degree from Duke University last June, and this year is head of the English Department, Fairfax Hall, Waynesboro, W. Va. She enjoys the work there very much.

Julia (Taylor) Morton's small daughter, Julia Taylor, might easily win a beauty contest—as seen from the vantage ground of a Christmas card. She is quite complete—bright eyes, smile, and all!

Kay Tolhurst had a unique job last summer—she worked at the State Police Headquarters, in the communications department, Hartford, Conn. "In September I returned to teach kindergarten in East Stratford.

Marguerite Waldenmaier is teaching a first grade in Stantonsburg. "And I am crazy about my work."

Ella Gray Wilson writes that she is spending her second year as "teacher" to a large group of eight-graders in the Dunn High School. "I find teaching interesting and fascinating work, although it is trying at times. Most of all, I enjoy coaching the girls' basketball team of that high school, even though to do so requires a great deal of extra time and work. Last year my team was runner-up in the Harnett County Tournament, and this year we are planning big on being the county winner. On the first day of school last fall, my present roommate and I met for the first time, we thought: but a little later we recognized each other as Woman's College alumnae, although we didn't know each other's name, when we were there. She is Eunice Fisher '46. She teaches history in our high school. In the early fall I spent a week end with Dadie Glisson, also '46, in Wilmington. I enclosed is my check for the ALUMNAE NEWS. Keep it rolling, for it keeps me rolling."

Cornelia (Woodlief) Parker is living now in Wilson, where she is teaching a second grade. "Of course the most important thing that has happened to me since I left W.C. was my marriage last July. We live in a garage apartment but I assure you it seems like a mansion to us, after having such a difficult time finding any place at all to call home. About the funniest thing you ever saw is 'us' washing dishes in the bath room!" That is fun, though, so long as Lee is there to make sure that the dishes get dried but quick! And of all things, we have a dog

ELIZABETH CHAPMAN '46

Elizabeth Chapman, Pittsburgh, Pa., is in Nome, Alaska, teaching grades 4 and 5 in the public schools. "I came up on August 28 by Pan American Airways. When I accepted the job, I thought I was going to be teaching high school music and English, but due to the shortage of teachers here, I was asked to teach grades 4 and 5. I have 42 students, and of that group 35 are Eskimos. My complaints are just three—that I haven't enough seats for all of them, only half as many books as I need, and more smell than I can manage!

"This 'smell' is a smell that I have never smelled before, and it is terrific! It comes from the seal oil and the dried fish that the children eat. It was much worse after winter set in, for then I had in addition to the seal oil and dried fish the smell of the skins in their mukluks (winter shoes), and in their parkas, which the natives tan with urine. I wasn't able to open the windows either, since the temperature was often below zero.

"Nome is an interesting place, however. The main street (or Front Street) runs parallel to the Bering Sea. All of the streets here are dirt, and all of the sidewalks are made of wood. The population is 1600 and half of these are Eskimos. The temperature, which I have already mentioned, really goes down at times to around 47 below. But the worst thing here is a cold, cold wind that blows in from the Bering Sea. The highest speed recorded on that wind was 56 miles per hour. A bright spot is this—that there is a lot of gold right on the beach here, and one can make around ten dollars for an average day's work.

"Nome is built on a glacier—one will strike solid ice three or four feet under the ground. All the land is tundra and extremely swampy. The ground shifts so much too that a good many of the little houses are on a slant caused by the ground moving about so often. But—believe it or not—there are no shortages in this place. Soap and soap flakes, Crisco, chocolate, butter, meat—all are here in plenty. Prices are high though. A hamburger costs 50 cents; a cheeseburger 75 cents; milk 25 cents a glass; ice cream 25 cents a dish; a bottle of coke 20 cents; a fountain coke 25 cents; reindeer steak $1.25 a pound; canned soup 50 cents a bowl, and a nickel candy bar at home is 10 cents here. Fresh foods are still more expensive, and one doesn't buy them except for a splurge. Nothing at all is rationed, and I am told that there was no rationing during the war either. On the other side of the picture, you will be glad to hear that salaries are high enough to take care of these high prices. My salary is $322 a month. Waitresses get $10 a day, and maids a dollar an hour. One thing I miss is trees—there are none here. And the only animals I have seen in Nome are white rabbits, Eskimo dogs, two horses that some one brought here, seals, wolves that never come to town; and occasionally I have seen some white whales.

"All in all, Nome is a wonderful place. Any time you want to find a nice vacation spot—this is it!"

too in our 'mansion.' He usually sleeps on the steps leading up to our room, and is much impressed with his importance, posing as vociferous guardian and caretaker. Lee is an announcer at the radio station here, but the pup has not yet recognized his voice over the radio—so far as we can tell. I still miss those good bull sessions we had at W.C., and had time for too. They are an important part of college life. This is all for now, except this—do not forget to send me the next number of the NEWS. I will do as always—put everything aside while I read it from back to front."

Jeanne Yarrow has been in Paris for some time.

Nancy Yokely writes from Kingsport, Tenn. "The last time I wrote I was secretary to the manager of Acetate Yarn Sales at Tennessee Eastman Corporation in Kingsport, Tenn. But for the past year I have been a Sales Correspondent in the Cellulose Products Sales Division, selling Tenite, our cellulose ester plastic. It is most interesting work and consists of answering various inquiries about our plastic. The shorthand and typing which I struggled over in school are no longer needed as I dictate my letters on an Ediphone and they are transcribed by the Central Stenographic Department. The territory I cover — by letter — is one half of New York City. We have of course a sales office in New York, as well as in nine other cities, and our staff there is the largest we have, consisting of four full-fledged salesmen. In theory my work is to coordinate the work of the salesman with that of the home office, here in Kingsport. It is here that we produce the plastic material in the form of granules and pellets which is supplied to extruders and molders of consumer articles. Examples: steering wheels, radio cabinets, combs, brushes, compacts, etc. Actually the most interesting letters I receive are those from every type of Tom, Dick, and Harry over and above my 125 regular customers. School kids may write in for color samples, or some man who has patented a new gadget may write in requesting the recommended type of Tenite to use in his particular application. (By this I mean he knows there are certain physical properties, such as impact strength, which will be required to make his product durable and attractive.) A few times I have even carried on spirited correspondence with inmates of various institutions who wanted scrap sheets of plastic from which to carve objects. Oh, it is all very interesting! Kingsport is a rather picturesque town under the layers of soot, dust, and smoke. As yet it lacks a lot as far as entertainment and civic pride are concerned. But it is a growing city, the last census giving somewhere around 45,000 people. Numerous articles have been written on its being the "planned industrial city of the South." You may have read the one in Readers' Digest sometime last year. Actually we have to throw up our hands in disgust at the horrible bus schedules and other inconveniences native to a fast growing city. Our shopping district is limited to one fairly good store (similar to Meyer's, but with far less merchandise) and dress shops of various types. One either eats at the Kingsport Inn, McGil's Restaurant, or the Snack Shop, and none of these places would require full dress. There is much more I would like to tell you about Kingsport and my work, but it looks like I'm situated here for some time to come so there will be numerous chances later on. It's a grand old life!"

Excerpts from a letter from the class president:

"Dear Miss Byrd: I am still measuring life by semesters. We are now just before taking inventory at Davison's, and to my boss, I referred to the next season as next semester! I do almost feel qualified to carry on class meetings in Atlanta since we nearly have a quorum working down here! There are about fifteen of our class nursing infant careers here. Although we have not all been together at one time, we do bump into each other frequently and it makes me feel so at home to talk over old times and exchange gossip. Joyce, Mary Nell Thompson, Lolly Cochran, and I are living together. And finding rooms was just about as much an accomplishment as getting that diploma last June! Politically, Georgia is so much talked about that I need not dwell on that. Culturally, Atlanta offers delightful concerts and shows. Socially — the phase I enjoy most — there's no end of entertainment! We are enjoying life at its best, from a convertible to crepe suzettes! Incidentally, Lolly got the convertible for Christmas. Letters from several of our friends indicate that about six of our W.C. crowd now working in Virginia, New Jersey, and Chapel Hill are planning to visit us in March. That — we will call a "floor party," since bed space won't accommodate more than two! This, however, is incidental because I'm certain that sleep won't be a major item of interest that week-end. I had hoped I would get back to W.C. for a week-end this year, but I am not yet sure that I shall be able to do it, but I do want to go very much. My job is fascinating — each day different. I am the assistant buyer for blouses and sweaters at Davison-Paxon. Merchandising becomes more and more a game as the market approaches normalcy. Please remember that every little word from College is more than welcome. I miss W.C., and have never become quite reconciled to the grim reality that school days are really over!

"Betty Jane Surratt."

Doris Braswell and Irene Womble decided to remain in Asheville at the conclusion of their six months of training in the retail training program given by Bon Marche, a department store there. "Our course is completed, and we have decided to stay with the store — Irene as assistant personnel director, and I as assistant buyer in the blouse, neckwear, and scarf department. Irene and I have finally found a nice three-room apartment and are we lucky, with housing conditions what they are! We find the retail world interesting, and hope to remain in the work, with a bigger and better career."

Dorothy Nelms is assistant in the Research and Media Department, Lindsay and Company, Advertising, Richmond, Va.

Betty Jane Owen is assistant in the Department of Health and Physical Education, Greensboro College. Last summer she was on the staff of Camp Trebor, Fryeburg, Maine.

Musa Queensbury has an interesting position as recreation director in an elementary school, Winston-Salem. "I am certainly enjoying the ALUMNAE NEWS and would not miss it for anything."

Mary A. Riddle, social work, Shelby. Marguerite Rinehart, French and Spanish, Barnard School, New York City.

Lillian Rivers, art, Carr Junior High School, Durham.

Susie (Robbins) Mowbray, homemaker, Rocky Mount.

Peggy Joyce Roberts, 2nd grade, Winston-Salem public schools. "Keeping in step with 40 second graders is not exactly restful, but there's never a dull moment. I truly miss W.C. — even the Friday night fish."

Mildred Rodgers, working for McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, New York City. "I spent my vacation last summer attending the Art Colony at Beaufort; then on here to New York — same kind of job."

Elizabeth Roe, intern in dietetics, Medical College of Virginia, Richmond, spent last summer as assistant dietitian and counselor at Mary Gwynn's camp.

Jean Ross, graduate study in English, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Celia Rothgeb, laboratory technician, Agronomy Department, State College, Raleigh. "I like my work here very much — analyzing plants and soil. Came here the first of last July. I certainly have enjoyed my copies of the ALUMNAE NEWS, and am looking forward to more."

Hellen Rouse, music, Junior High School, Wilmington. "I directed music in a scout camp last summer, and this winter am finding Wilmington a grand place to be."

DO THIS If Baby Has a Cold

Best-known home remedy you can use to relieve distress of baby's cold is to rub his little throat, chest and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Results are so good because VapoRub:

Penetrates to cold-irritated upper bronchial tubes with special soothing medicinal vapors.

Stimulates chest and back surfaces like a nice warming poultice.

While baby sleeps VapoRub's penetrating-stimulating action keeps working for hours to bring relief. Often by morning most distress of the cold is gone. Try Vicks VapoRub tonight!

June Smith, laboratory assistant, Hood College. "Last summer I worked at Virginia Beach for two months with four other members of the Class—it was a most interesting experience."

Margaret Smith, flight stewardess, Universal Airlines, with headquarters at Miami, Fla. "This is a small 'charter' air line, but it offers excitement and interesting travel. Our work is not too hard either. We have only two routes to fly—one to San Juan, Puerto Rico, and the other to New York City. My schedule goes like this: One day I fly to San Juan, spend day and night there, and then fly back to Miami, my home base. Then I have four days off. I fly next to Newark, N. J., remain there or go over to New York City for a day and night and then fly back to Miami. I have an apartment on Miami Beach with three other girls. Miami is a wonderful place to live."

Marguerite (Smith) Wood, homemaking, Dorchester, Mass. "My husband is a student at the Music School of Boston University. I am planning to work later on—I hope in one of the chemical laboratories; and I may go back to school for advanced study in chemistry."

Frances Stephenson, 4th grade, Mount Pleasant public school.

Mildred (Stemberger) Shavlansky, homemaker, Toledo, Ohio. "The ALUMNAE NEWS is terrific!"

Jean Stockton, physical education, High Point Junior High School. "Last summer, I was water front director at Camp Shirley Rogers, Roaring Gap. After that, a week of real vacation at Myrtle Beach, S. C."

Cora Stratford, 7th grade, Graham public schools. "I had a wonderful vacation last summer, seeing Florida, Texas, and California." Cora made her debut at the Debutante Ball held in Raleigh last summer.

Carol Street, taking business course, Winston-Salem.

Jane Street, graduate study in child welfare, University of Iowa. Jane has an assistantship in the University.

Phyllis (Strickland) Benedict, in charge of art reference room, library of University of New Hampshire. Her husband is this year completing the work for his master's degree in education from this University.

Caroline (Summerlin) Barbee, secretary, Greensboro. "My husband will complete his college work at Guilford College in January. After that we are not sure where we shall be."

Elizabeth Summersett, secretary to the executive secretary of Methodist Board of Education, Western North Carolina Conference. "I began this work shortly after graduation — on June 10. Spent three weeks as a member of the staff of Youth Assemblies, Lake Junaluska. Then went to Myrtle Beach during the month of July, for vacation. I like my work very much. And I meet W.C. alumnae everywhere!"

Zoe Swecker, Freshman history. Woman's College, UNC.

Emily Teague, home economics, Albemarle High School.

Lucile Tegg, graduate student in music, Woman's College, UNC.

Maxine Templeton, assistant home demonstration agent, Randolph County, with headquarters in Asheboro.

Claire Thatcher, home economics, Waccamaw High School, Ash.

Doris Theodore, laboratory technician, Baker's Sanatorium, Lumberton.

Jane Thomason, continuity director, radio station WTKR, Durham. "I completed my work at Woman's College in January, 1946, and spent the spring term doing graduate work in English at Duke University."

Helen (Thompson) Efland, home economics, Rolesville High School. "I started my work here on July 15, since this job runs for 11 months in the year. I like to teach, and am extremely proud of my FHA Club. Fifty of my girls are members this year. My husband is a student at State College. He commutes back and forth every day. Luckily we are not far away."

Margaret Thomas, secretary, Local Government Commission, Raleigh.

Mary Glenn (Thompson) Hiers, church secretary, Tampa, Fla. "I am secretary at the First Christian Church here — a job I sorta fell into, but I like it very much indeed. We live about 15 blocks away, but I make direct bus connections in about five minutes. I am back home every afternoon by 4:00 o'clock, and have time to begin dinner before my husband comes in. Speaking of cooking, I had never cooked a whole meal in my life before last June. But there is always a beginning to everything! I might say we haven't suffered too much by my amateur status. Some one was kind enough to give us a Good Housekeeping Cook Book, and I have been a faithful student of its pages. Lucky, my husband, and I spent our honeymoon in New Orleans. It was our first visit to this famous Southern city, and we were particularly fascinated by the French quarter. Believe it or not, an apartment was waiting for us when we got back to Tampa. We have three rooms — the usual living room, bedroom, and kitchen, plus bath and a large closet. I had never before spent an entire summer in Tampa, although I had heard much about the terrific heat of the city. Our bedroom has nine windows, and that fact helped a great deal. I suppose you know that Lucky and I were married at the First Baptist Church, Hamlet, on June 5, just two days after I was graduated. Joanna Tucker and La Verne Barrs, both '46's, were bridesmaids, as was Connie Steed, Com. '45. Det Spruill '46 was soloist. We had been in our apartment here only about 10 days when we had our first guests. Helen (Denning) Lowdermilk '46 and her husband, Johnny, stopped by to see us on their honeymoon. Lucky and I insisted that they stay in Tampa for a few days, and so we moved over to stay with Lucky's parents, and let the other newlyweds have our place. Helen is teaching in Thomasville this year, and her husband is attending High Point College. Best wishes to all the folks at W.C. — it really didn't seem right not to pack up and go back last September."

Mary Nell Thompson, secretary, Delta Air Lines, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.

Betty Jo Thornton, price clerk, OPA, Williamson, W. Va.

Margaret Jean Thornton, assistant in health education, YWCA, Richmond, Va.

Lucy Thurston, home economics, Stony Point High School.

Josie Tomlinson, Spanish and English, Roxboro High School.

Nina Trogdon, 5th grade, Winston-Salem public schools.

Alice (Trosper) Thomas, assistant psychometrist, Veterans Administration Guidance Center, State College, Raleigh. "In this work, we test disabled veterans to determine what kind of job it would be best for them to take up."

Louise Troutman, secretary, Mooresville Furniture Company, Mooresville.

Harriett Tucker, English, Laurinburg High School. "I attended summer school at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, last summer."

Joanna Tucker has a new position — she is now assistant librarian in the Children's Division, Mount Pleasant Branch, Public Library, Washington City.

Louise Turner, secretary to Chancellor Jackson, Woman's College, UNC.

Celeste Ulrich, teaching fellowship in correctives, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. "I taught in the summer session of Woman's College last summer and then took a job for a few weeks at a camp in New York. After that I had a vacation of ten days in Maine — and was it a vacation! We camped out all the time, slept on the ground, and walked from place to place. Maine is a wonderful state, but I can't get that Carolina sand out of my shoes. You see where I am this year."

Phyllis Vreeland, civilian personnel office, Army Air Base, Pope Field, Ft. Bragg. "After graduation last June, I went to Bayview on a house party with several other W.C. girls. Then I traveled on to Florida — a state I had never visited before, and saw all there was to see from Jacksonville to Miami, including Palm Beach. Of course I saw many beautiful places, but North Carolina still suits me."

Elizabeth Waite, keeping house, Camden, S. C. "I spent last summer keeping house too, with frequent visits to the Eleanor White, director of women's and girl's activities, YWCA, Portsmouth, Va. "This work is extremely interesting. The Y here is unique in that it is a family Y—we have programs for men, women, boys and girls. I am the only full time worker in the women's department, and so am responsible for both the physical activities and the club work. I have 8 Tri-Hi-Y Clubs to supervise, and am hoping to organize four more in the near future. I spent the month of August in California with my sister, Nancy (White) Kerch '41. I look forward to receiving the next number of the ALUMNAE NEWS—please send it to me here at the Y."

Elizabeth White, secretary to the treasurer of the American Trust Company, Charlotte. "I started to work the first of last July, and so I really didn't have too much time for a vacation, although I did get to the beach for a little while. My roommate at college, Peggy Guin '46, came down from Washington, D. C., and went with my family and me to Myrtle Beach. I like my work here very much. We have a cafeteria in the bank which serves delicious meals at reasonable prices. This is quite an advantage. I run into W.C. girls all along—many of them are working here in Charlotte, or living here. I must not close without telling you that I flew to Washington not long ago, with another Charlotte girl, and spent a night with Peggy. From there we went on over to Annapolis to see the Navy-Villanova football game, and then had dinner on the battleship 'North Carolina,' which was docked a few miles out in the bay. This was my first trip on a big airliner, and it was most thrilling."

Josie Nance White, 1st grade, A. T. Allen School, Salisbury.

Mary Ruth Whitener, assistant home demonstration agent, Rowan County, with headquarters at Salisbury.

Evelyn (Whittington) Bingham, keeping house, Jacksonville, Fla. "As soon as my husband finishes his work here in the Navy Hospital, we hope to go back to North Carolina."

Nelda Widenhouse, psychiatric social work, Rockland State Hospital, Orangeburg, N. Y.

Mary Elizabeth Willard, chemist, Gas and Oil Inspection Laboratory, Raleigh.

Helena Williams, physical education and biology, Chatham Hall, Chatham, Va. "Last summer I was boating counselor at Camp Trebor, Fryeburg, Maine."

Betty Yost, secretary, Pilot Life Insurance Company, Greensboro.

Winnie Yount, research chemist, Plaskon Division, Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, Toledo, Ohio.

Eleanor Younts, assistant director, and recreation director, Memorial Foundation, Richmond, Va. "This is a home for girls between the ages of 12-17, who are receiving psychiatric treatment from the Memorial Guidance Clinic. Later on, I plan to do post graduate study at the Social Work School of the College of William and Mary."

Christine Zachary, student dietitian, University Hospital, University of Michigan. "Last summer I was assistant manager of the home economics cafeteria at Woman's College."

Dr. Petretti was graduated from Fordham Preparatory School and from Fordham University, and now is interning at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Elizabeth, N. J. At home there.

FRANCES KENNEY '49

Winner of Teague Award as Outstanding Amateur Sportswoman in North and South Carolina

Even good and excellent swimmers—to say nothing of the no-swimmers-at-all—and water sports fans of every vintage, stand in wide-eyed wonder and admiration whenever they have a chance to watch Frances Kenney, sophomore, perform in the swimming pool—whether in the physical education building, or any other place where there is deep water! Frances is a swimmer! And so no one was surprised when not long ago word came to the campus that she had won the Teague Award for women—an award established five years ago in memory of Judge Teague of High Point, who was interested in the development of athletics in the Carolinas. This award was presented by the sports writers of the newspapers which receive A. P. dispatches. The award was won first, and held for two years, by Estelle Lawson Page, noted golfer; and for the last two years by Peggy Pate, swimmer. Now again a dolphin gets the crown. Frances claims she had her first practice in the creek that runs through the front yard of her two-storied white house in Raleigh! She certainly doesn't inherit swimming. Her mother claims that she can float—the rest of the family sink! Nick Sacrinty, football hero of Wake Forest College, won the Teague award this year for best amateur sportsman in the Carolinas.

Evelyn Ann Gullidge '45 to William Andrew Corbett, December 28, 1946, Morven Baptist Church, Morven. Elizabeth Winston '45 was maid of honor. Mr. Corbett was graduated from Staunton Military Academy. He served three years with the Army, spending 15 months in the European Theater with the 78th Infantry Division. He is continuing his work in commerce at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. At home there.

Mary Harrington '45 to William Harrell Johnson, August 17, 1946, Page Memorial Methodist Church, Aberdeen. Joan Weill '45 and Barbara Hicks, class of '45 were two of the attendants. Mr. Harrell is a graduate of Wake Forest College, where in his senior year he was president of the Student Legislature and Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He is now a junior in the Dental School, Medical College of Virginia. At home temporarily, Richmond.

Jean Barbara Holmes '45 to James Glen McAdams Jr., February 5, Front Street Methodist Church, Burlington. The bridegroom is a graduate of Saint Bonaventure University. He later attended Duke University, Campbell College, and Bowling Green Business University. He served in the Army for 45 months — in the European Theater with the 393rd Combat Engineer Regiment. Since his discharge he has become associated with his father at McAdams Office Supply Company, Burlington. At home there.

Carolyn Lowrance '45 to Hubert Marion Johnson, October 26, 1946, Statesville. The bridegroom is manager of the Orange Crush Bottling Company, Statesville. At home there.

Eleanor Molen '45 to Roger W. Anderson, February 16, Presbyterian Church of the Covenant, Greensboro. Eleanor Dare Taylor '45 was maid of honor. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where he was a member of the band and of the glee club and was president of Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity. The College Collection Needs Many Annuals

"Last fall Miss Edna Forney brought to the library a copy of her class annual. It was a gift from her. The very earliest copy of the annuals to be placed in the library is that of the Class of 1902 — called the Decennial. Later the annual was called Carolinian. Our first copy of this vintage is that of 1909. We need Carolinians for the years 1912 and 1916. The fact is, the library is making an effort to collect two copies of every annual — one for the College Collection and one for the stacks; therefore, second copies of any of these earlier annuals will be most welcome." THE ALUMNAE NEWS is here quoting Mr. Charles M. Adams, Librarian of Woman's College.

The annual is now named Pine Needles. The college library is eager to receive copies for the years 1918, 1925, 1928, 1934, and 1935. If you have a copy of any of these numbers which you can spare, the library will receive it with gratitude. The College Collection is growing slowly, with the help of the alumnae. Go to the library to see it when you visit the campus again.

Ruth Holloway (Mrs. J. D. Brinkley) died February 2, Grace Hospital, Morganton. Her home was in Valdes.

CLASS OF 1944

TO MARGARET JO

In memory of the dearest friend I ever had, Margaret Jo Brock, age twenty-two, who died in an airplane crash in the early hours of the morning, March 8, 1947, near Burlington, North Carolina:

You went away in beauty's flower.
Before your youth was spent;
Ere life and love had lived their hour
God called you, and you went.

Yet whispers Faith upon the wind;
No grief to you was given.
You left our love and went to find
A greater one in heaven.

—By Kathryn McGowan Wyrick '44.

CLASS OF 1945

Dorothy Winsome Britt died June 19, 1946. Clinton. She had been ill for a long time. To her sister, Gwendolyn (Britt) Clifton '32, we extend deepest sympathy.

We Extend Deepest Sympathy:

To Eunice (Roberts) Gardner '10, in the sudden death of her husband, November 18, 1946. Shelby.

To Mary Lou (Alderman) Parker '20, Madge (Alderman) Marshall '24, and Alice Alderman. Com. '21, in the death of their father, at his home in Gastonia, February 15, following a short illness.

DEVOE PAINTS

Featuring the
2-COAT SYSTEM

This Devoe 2-Coat System doesn't try to saddle or shirk. There are two definite jobs for outside paint to do, and Devoe does them. Each coat does its specific work. The first coat locks the pores of the wood like iron, seals it against sucking up life-giving oils. The second coat is built to laugh off ultra-violet sun rays and weather, still sparkles after several years.
